Administration Counts On Senate To Head Off Deep Excise Tax Cut

Hope Of Stopping Passage By House Abandoned By Ike

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP) — The administration abandoned hope today of keeping the House from cutting excise taxes almost a billion dollars.

The strategy now is to count on the Senate to prevent a reduction which House Speaker Martin (R-Mass) said President Eisenhower feels "goes a little too far."

The excise tax bill comes up for House debate Wednesday. And it came up for discussion today at the regular Monday conference at the White House between the President and Republican leaders in Congress.

Martin told newsmen afterward administration forces will make no attempt to stop House passage of the measure. For one thing, the parliamentary situation will be such that no individual members can offer amendments, and only the Democrats can try to send the bill back to committee.

Ike Seen On Shaky Ground

But after the legislation gets to the Senate, Martin said, the administration hopes to block some of the proposed cuts or at least keep them from going so deep.

Actually, some tax experts in Congress say Eisenhower may be on shaky ground in relying on either House or Senate to head off a reduction of a billion dollars or even more. One administration chief who didn't want to be named said the White House will be lucky if the Senate doesn't increase any reductions the House may approve.

Furthermore, the House itself might boost the amount of reductions, if Democrats have their way. They are nearly as numerous as Republicans.

Apparently to try to get the GOP to hold the line against greater cuts, House Republican leaders have called a party conference for tomorrow.

Provision Of Tax Bill

The tax bill would keep excise or sales taxes on such items as liquor, tobacco, gasoline and cars at present rates indefinitely. Without action by Congress, these taxes would expire automatically April 1, at a loss of about a billion dollars a year in revenue. Eisenhower wants the rates extended.

In addition, the bill would cut in half the present 20 per cent tax on many things, such as cosmetics, admissions and luggage. This would cost the Treasury nearly a billion dollars annually. House Democrats are campaigning to change the bill so as to extend the expiring taxes for only one year and remove the admissions tax from tickets costing 50 cents or less.

Pair Wins Grim Race With Train

PORT HURON, Mich., March 8 (AP)—Two men suddenly found themselves in a grim race with a freight train yesterday when their car was forced onto the tracks by another swerving motorist.

Robert W. Dandron, 23, told sheriff's deputies that the transmission of the car was so badly damaged that he couldn't back up, and when the train came in sight he stepped on the accelerator and went lurching down the tracks.

Dandron and his passenger, Chester Orzechowski, lurched and bounced over the railroad ties for half a mile as the train kept creeping up on them.

Finally they made it to a crossing where they veered onto the road again to safety.

Army To Form New Armored Division

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP) — The Army announced today formation of a new armored division, to be based at Ft. Hood, Tex.

The division, which will be the third such unit in the tactical organization of the Army, will be maintained at "slightly below" the normal 14,756-man strength of an armored division. Its organization will begin June 15.

A full strength armored division has about 350 tanks.

Popular Naguib Restored To Full Power In Egypt

CAIRO, Egypt, March 8 (AP) — President Mohamed Naguib, who was suddenly deposed 12 days ago by young officer colleagues in his Egyptian revolution, bounced back to full power tonight.

Restored to the presidency three days after he was confined to his house by an armed guard, Naguib re-emerged tonight also as premier and president of the ruling Revolutionary Council.

An announcement by Guidance Minister Salah Salem after a four-hour joint meeting of the Revolutionary Council and the Cabinet, said it had been decided to wipe out the incidents of Feb. 25, when Naguib was hastily deposed, as if they never had occurred.

Naguib Popular With Masses

It was obvious that Naguib's popularity with the Egyptian masses was still working. The regime was believed to be trying further to patch up its unity, regain public support and achieve a position from which a hard bargain might be driven with Britain over evacuation of her Middle East defense base in the Suez Canal zone.

Earlier today, the Revolutionary Council had decreed that Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser should supplant Naguib as Egypt's military governor — to administer the martial law which has been in force since the Cairo fire riots of 1952. The post has been held by the premier in office.

Abdel Nasser Vice Premier

Whether this precipitated the long meeting today was not disclosed.

Abdel Nasser himself made the motion tonight restoring Naguib to full powers of president, premier and chairman of the Revolutionary Council.

By this move Abdel Nasser relegated himself from premier and chairman of the council to vice premier.

French Prepare For Red Assault

HANOI, Indochina, March 8 (AP)—The French tightened their defenses today from Hanoi to the key supply port of Haiphong. The entire area was alerted as rumors spread that the Red-led Vietminh are reading a big push to catch the eye of the big powers before they meet in Geneva.

The French declared a state of emergency in Haiphong, 64 miles east of Hanoi and rushed extra guards to a U. S.-serviced airfield crippled Sunday by a daring Red commando raid. It was the third such attack within a month.

Patrols were bolstered at all other air strips in the vicinity as word went out that Ho Chi Minh's forces plan to attack every area where American personnel work. Vietminh radio has accused the United States of intervening in the Indochina War.

The French set up prohibited zones around both Catbi and Doson fields where 149 American technicians service U. S.-supplied planes for the French. They barred all civilians except those with special authorization.

The rebels struck Catbi before dawn Sunday, blowing up "several planes" and firing on guards before they fled. The French said five of the raiders were killed and several captured.

Probe Testimony Banned As State Court Evidence

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP) — Testimony by a witness before a congressional committee may not be used against him in any criminal prosecution in any court, the Supreme Court ruled today.

It was the first time the court ever said specifically such testimony may not be used in state courts.

The unanimous decision struck down the state court conviction of William Adams of Baltimore on charges of conspiring to violate Maryland's anti-lottery laws. Adams had been sentenced to seven years in prison and fined $2,000.

Confessed To Gambling

Justice Black, who wrote the court's main opinion said Adams admitted when questioned by the Senate Crime Investigating Committee in July, 1951, having run a gambling business in Maryland. He said this confession was used to convict Adams.

Black pointed out a section of the Federal Criminal Code (3486) provides no testimony given by a witness in congressional inquiries shall be used as evidence in any criminal proceeding against him in court.

The section stems from an 1857 congressional act designed to give committee witnesses immunity from prosecution in order to get testimony they otherwise could refuse to give on grounds of self-incrimination. Thirty five years later the Supreme Court ruled this law was not broad enough to accomplish its purpose. Atty. Gen. Brownell is working on a new law along this line at present.

Right To Refuse Not Affected

Today's decision does not affect the "Fifth Amendment" right of a witness to refuse to give testimony on ground it might tend to incriminate him.

It adds up to this: A witness cannot be compelled to give incriminating testimony, and the actual testimony he gives without claiming the privilege against self-incrimination cannot be used against him. Adams did not claim the privilege.

Young Sisters Are Rescued After Night On Chasm Ledge

YUMA, Ariz., March 8 (AP)—Calm and courage paid off today for two young sisters who wandered from a picnic and became stranded at night on a canyon ledge.

From dusk until after sunup Carla Meyer, 12, and her 9-year-old sister, Jean, waited patiently for help to come.

"We weren't scared," said Carla.

They were sighted first by Kenneth Hansberger, who with his wife had taken the Meyer girls on the picnic yesterday.

Chilled and tired but in good condition, they were carried to safety by sheriff's deputies who had combed Palm Canyon, a rugged chasm 70 miles north of here, all night long.

A helicopter from March Air Force Base, Calif., also was used in the search. Two others turned back after the rescue had been made.

Sheriff Jim Washum praised the way the girls reacted to their plight. "They are smart girls," he said.

"They stayed put during the night and that probably saved their lives. If they had wandered around they might have fallen 1,000 feet."

Helping in the search was the lost girls' father, Arnold Meyer, a Yuma automobile mechanic.

As soon as they realized the girls were lost, the Hansbergers and a companion, Jean Lensh, hurried back to Yuma to report the situation.

Meanwhile, the girls, dressed only in shirts and slacks, wandered until it became too dark to go farther.

Carla said they slept most of the chilly night.

Dulles Urges United Action Against Reds

Parley Told Moscow Seeking Foothold In Western Hemisphere

CARACAS, Venezuela, March 8 (AP)—Moscow seeks to bring parts of the Western Hemisphere into the Soviet Orbit, Secretary of State Dulles said today.

The secretary urged the American republics to take united action to thwart any such designs. He addressed the 10th Inter-American Conference in support of a U. S. anti-communist resolution and soon afterwards cancelled speaking engagements in the United States. The explanation given was that he wanted to remain here and direct personally the U.S. campaign for the resolution.

Guatemala Lectured

Dulles began by reading a stern lecture to Guatemala on the meaning of international communism. Foreign Minister Guillermo Toriello of that Red-tinged Central American republic had said he didn't know. When Dulles finished, the Guatemalan said he still didn't know.

International communism, President Eisenhower's top diplomat explained, "is that far-flung clandestine political organization which is operated by the leaders of the Communist party of the Soviet Union. Since 1939 it has brought 15 once independent nations into a state of abject servitude. It has a hard core of agents in practically every country of the world. The total constitutes not a theory, not a doctrine, but an aggressive, tough political force backed by great resources and serving the most ruthless empire of modern times."

"Dulles Doctrine" Supported

He called on the Americas to spring into united action if one on them fell victim.

Brazil, the Dominican Republic, Paraguay, Nicaragua and Honduras immediately threw their support to this new "Dulles doctrine." Mexico submitted an amendment expanding such joint action to all forms of totalitarianism.

Toriello sat silent while delegates gave Dulles a 26-second burst of applause for his definition and then said he was still unsatisfied.

NLRB Asks Court End Dock Strike

NEW YORK, March 8 (AP)—A $100,000 contempt action was started today against the International Longshoremen's Assn. (Ind) for a wildcat strike on New York's vast waterfront. The walkout started Friday.

The National Labor Relations Board went into court to demand an end to the strike or a stiff fine. Federal Judge David N. Edelstein put off a decision until at least tomorrow.

John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers (ind) was fined $1,400,000 in 1948 for contempt of court in a somewhat similar situation.

U. S. Customs estimated 80 per cent of New York's 350-mile waterfront was idled today by the strike, which is in defiance of a federal non-strike order. Ocean liners already were being diverted to other ports to escape the tie-up.

The dockers had been warned that they might be found in contempt of a federal court injunction if they did not work today.

But despite announced efforts of their leader to "try like hell" to get them back to work, they failed to work most affected piers and the strike even spread to new piers.

Netherlands Is First To Approve EDC Link

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP)—The Netherlands today became the first Western European country to complete all legislative and diplomatic steps necessary in order to join the European Defense Community.

In a brief ceremony at the State Department, Ambassador J. H. Van Roijen handed a diplomatic protocol to Under Secretary Walter B. Smith which formally links his government as a member of the six-nation European army.

"The Netherlands government can justifiably be proud of the initiative and leadership that they have demonstrated in working toward achievement of a European Defense Community," Smith told the envoy.

Would Take Poison

Lacked Strength To Live Up To Military Ideal, Dean Says

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP)—Maj. Gen. William F. Dean testified today he himself lacked the "intelligence or strength" to live up to the military ideal and tell his Communist captors nothing but his name, rank and serial number.

The 54-year-old general, for three years a war prisoner in Korea, appeared at a military court of inquiry as a witness for Col. Frank Schwable, Marine flyer who falsely "confessed" to germ warfare under Communist pressure.

Dean withheld his personal views on the conduct of Schwable, who may face a court-martial if the four-member inquiry court rules against him. The court also can recommend no charges be filed.

Would Carry Poison

Under questioning Dean testified that if he ever went to war again he would carry poison to swallow if he were captured—so as to avoid giving military information to the enemy.

Dean said he would have welcomed death during his gruelling captivity. He told a story he's told before—that he once tried to commit suicide to avoid talking, since the thing he most feared was that under physical torture he might expose U. S. military secrets.

Schwable's counsel, Col. Paul B. Sherman, asked if it is realistic to expect a captured officer to stick to the Geneva convention on treatment of war prisoners. This requires a prisoner to give only his name, rank and serial number.

"Dividing Line" Necessary

"There has to be a dividing line," Dean replied, "and that's as good a line as any. It's the ideal we should strive for; the Communists won't stop (their questioning) anywhere."

"Do you believe it possible for anyone to stop after giving name, rank and serial number"? Sherman persisted.

"It is hard for me to judge others," Dean said. "I didn't have the intelligence or strength to stop there."

Dean said he did refuse to broadcast for the Communists or to tell them where South Korean President Rhee could be found.

U. S., Japan Sign Mutual Defense Pact

TOKYO, Tuesday, March 9 (AP)—Japan and the United States, bitter enemies only nine years ago, took a big step yesterday toward becoming armed allies against the threat of Communist aggression.

U. S. Ambassador John Allison and Japanese Foreign Minister Katsuo Okazaki signed the long pending U. S.-Japan mutual defense pact. Allison said the pact "takes us one step nearer the time when the United States can withdraw its forces from Japan."

It still must be ratified by Japan's Diet before going into effect but Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida was confident this could be acend despite Socialist and minor leftist opposition.

Once ratified the pact will:

Put an estimated 100 to 130 million dollars into Japan's economy for military purposes the first year and an untold amount in succeeding years.

Furnish Japan destroyers, jet planes, tanks and jeeps and help boost the defense force from 120,000 to 160,000 men in a year — although still far short of the 300,000-man force favored by the United States.

Provide a 700-man U. S. military advisory group to serve with the Japanese defense force.

The defense pact does not specify details of the military aid the United States will supply. These must be spelled out in subsequent negotiations. But a well-placed American source assured "We can support any program Japan wants."

A companion agreement provides for importing 50 million dollars of U. S. surplus grain — 500,000 tons of wheat, 100,000 tons of barley. The government will sell the grain domestically, raising money for guns and munitions.

$1,750,000,000 Roads Bill Clears Senate

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP)—The House today passed and sent to the Senate a $1,750,000,000 roads bill.

Rejecting all amendments to the administration-sponsored measure, the House approved it by voice vote.

The bill would authorize unprecedented federal spending on roads of 875 million dollars annually for the two years beginning July 1, 1955.

Personally endorsed by President Eisenhower, the measure would give states matching this money more leeway in some respects in how it is spent.

Motorist Blames Crash On Slippery Nylon Seat Covers

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 8 (AP)—The way E. C. Meeks told it today, his car didn't skid when he turned that corner—but he did.

It was those slippery nylon seat covers. Meeks, 33, said he slid clean across the seat, lost control, and the car careened into the wall of a service station.

"Now I've heard everything," said acting Traffic Court Judge Dave Ballon who fined Meeks $26 for reckless driving and $16 for not having a driver's license.

Statehood Bill Fight Set Today

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP)—The Senate took up Hawaii statehood briefly today, but put off until tomorrow the big fight over tying Alaska into the proposal.

In rapid succession, virtually unbroken by discussion, the upper chamber approved amendments made to the bill by the Senate Interior and Insular Affairs Committee.

Then the measure was opened up for general amendment from the floor.

The first such move—a proposal by Sen. Anderson (D-NM) to add an Alaska statehood section—will be subject to consideration tomorrow morning at the Democrats' first Senate conference of the session.

Whether Democrats will emerge from that meeting committed to go down the line solidly for Alaska is uncertain. At least one, Sen. Long (D-La), has voted in the Interior Committee against approving either a combined Hawaii-Alaska bill or an Alaska-only measure. Long, however, voted in favor of the Hawaii bill.

Md. Family Is $17 Poorer After Radio Riches Quest

NEW YORK, March 8 (AP)—The Welfare Department washed its hands today of needy people stranded here in quest of a handout from the radio-television show "Strike It Rich."

The latest case was a jobless Maryland relief client who brought his pregnant wife and nine children here by bus today—broke and hungry—in search of giveaway riches from the show. They had never even seen or heard it on the air. The children ranged in age from one year to 17.

Michael Jaskulski and his family were promptly bundled on a train back to Port Deposit, Md. It cost him $17 to get the family here. It cost the city nearly three times as much to get rid of them.

Welfare Commissioner Henry L. McCarthy promptly announced:

"The Department of Welfare will no longer take care of people coming into the city to get on 'Strike it Rich.' If needy people are impelled to come here to get on the program, then let 'Strike it Rich' take care of them."

The show's producer, Walter Framer, declined comment on McCarthy's ultimatum. However, he repeated that the show warns listeners not to come here without an invitation.

The Jaskulski family arrived before dawn today with about $2 in cash and a bottle of milk gone sour.

The father is a tug worker who went on relief after he was injured at work. He added that he is able to work again now.

They said they live in two rooms of a windowless, leaky $15-a-month shack.

Jaskulski said a neighbor, Mrs. Edna Pierce, wrote a letter intended to get them on "Strike it Rich." But instead of sending it, the family decided to come ahead without waiting and try to get on the program.

Sen. M'Carthy Irked As GOP Bypasses Him

Refused Free Time, Wisconsin Legislator Threatens Networks

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP)—The Republican party passed over Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) today and gave Vice President Nixon the job of answering a Democratic blast by Adlai Stevenson that the party is "half McCarthy and half Eisenhower."

But McCarthy said television and radio networks would give him free time too to answer Stevenson or they would "learn what the law is."

GOP Chairman Leonard W. Hall moved in ahead of McCarthy to get free radio and TV time equal to that given Stevenson, titular head of the Democrats, for a speech at Miami Beach Saturday night.

Later Hall announced Nixon would appear on a combined radio-TV broadcast Saturday to speak not only on the Republican party leadership and the administration's program but also to reply to Stevenson.

McCarthy Not Satisfied

That didn't entirely satisfy McCarthy.

On reaching New York from Miami, he said:

"I am delegating to no one the authority to defend me. In addition I intend to do everything I can to make the television companies live up to their obligations."

The senator said he would continue to demand time for himself "and I will not countenance anything else."

McCarthy called Stevenson's speech "an intemperate attack on the Republican party and a lengthy, vicious attack on me personally."

GOP Chairman Hall said that Nixon, in replying to Stevenson, would speak "as the official representative of the Republican party in this matter."

Free Time Refused Senator

Stevenson, in an address to a Democratic rally in Florida, said a group of "political plungers" had persuaded President Eisenhower to adopt McCarthy's tactics for the GOP as a whole.

Nixon will speak Saturday night from 10:30 to 11 p.m. (EST).

Both CBS and NBC announced they would give the party a rebuttal period but were turning down free time for McCarthy.

Interviewed in Miami, the Wisconsin senator declared he personally wants 30 minutes on the air to answer, among other things, Stevenson's charge that he is sowing "slander and dissension" across the land.

If the free time is not forthcoming, McCarthy said, he will take the question up with the Federal Communications Commission, which regulates radio and television stations.

110 Puerto Ricans Seized In Probe

NEW YORK, March 8 (AP)—More than 110 Puerto Ricans, including the wife of a would-be assassin of former President Harry S. Truman, were rounded up in New York and Chicago today in a swift probe into the shooting of five congressmen in Washington last week.

Mrs. Rosa Collazo, secretary of the local branch of the Puerto Rican Nationalist party, was subpoenaed before one of the three grand juries probing party membership here. Her husband, Oscar, is serving a life sentence for an attempt to assassinate Truman on Nov. 1, 1950.

Today's roundup of 91 persons here and 20 in Chicago was called the largest peacetime roundup of federal witnesses in connection with a single conspiracy.

The investigation was ordered by the Department of Justice after three men and one woman were captured in Washington last Monday in the shooting of the congressmen.

All four claimed membership in the Nationalist party of Puerto Rico, which advocates immediate independence for the Caribbean island.

Four ROK Planes Crash

Parley Told Moscow Seeking Foothold In Western Hemisphere

CARACAS, Venezuela, March 8 (AP)—Moscow seeks to bring parts of the Western Hemisphere into the Soviet Orbit, Secretary of State Dulles said today.

The secretary urged the American republics to take united action to thwart any such designs. He addressed the 10th Inter-American Conference in support of a U. S. anti-communist resolution and soon afterwards cancelled speaking engagements in the United States. The explanation given was that he wanted to remain here and direct personally the U.S. campaign for the resolution.

Guatemala Lectured

Dulles began by reading a stern lecture to Guatemala on the meaning of international communism. Foreign Minister Guillermo Toriello of that Red-tinged Central American republic had said he didn't know. When Dulles finished, the Guatemalan said he still didn't know.

International communism, President Eisenhower's top diplomat explained, "is that far-flung clandestine political organization which is operated by the leaders of the Communist party of the Soviet Union. Since 1939 it has brought 15 once independent nations into a state of abject servitude. It has a hard core of agents in practically every country of the world. The total constitutes not a theory, not a doctrine, but an aggressive, tough political force backed by great resources and serving the most ruthless empire of modern times."

"Dulles Doctrine" Supported

He called on the Americas to spring into united action if one on them fell victim.

Brazil, the Dominican Republic, Paraguay, Nicaragua and Honduras immediately threw their support to this new "Dulles doctrine." Mexico submitted an amendment expanding such joint action to all forms of totalitarianism.

Toriello sat silent while delegates gave Dulles a 26-second burst of applause for his definition and then said he was still unsatisfied.

NLRB Asks Court End Dock Strike

NEW YORK, March 8 (AP)—A $100,000 contempt action was started today against the International Longshoremen's Assn. (Ind) for a wildcat strike on New York's vast waterfront. The walkout started Friday.

The National Labor Relations Board went into court to demand an end to the strike or a stiff fine. Federal Judge David N. Edelstein put off a decision until at least tomorrow.

John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers (ind) was fined $1,400,000 in 1948 for contempt of court in a somewhat similar situation.

U. S. Customs estimated 80 per cent of New York's 350-mile waterfront was idled today by the strike, which is in defiance of a federal non-strike order. Ocean liners already were being diverted to other ports to escape the tie-up.

The dockers had been warned that they might be found in contempt of a federal court injunction if they did not work today.

But despite announced efforts of their leader to "try like hell" to get them back to work, they failed to work most affected piers and the strike even spread to new piers.

Netherlands Is First To Approve EDC Link

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP)—The Netherlands today became the first Western European country to complete all legislative and diplomatic steps necessary in order to join the European Defense Community.

In a brief ceremony at the State Department, Ambassador J. H. Van Roijen handed a diplomatic protocol to Under Secretary Walter B. Smith which formally links his government as a member of the six-nation European army.

"The Netherlands government can justifiably be proud of the initiative and leadership that they have demonstrated in working toward achievement of a European Defense Community," Smith told the envoy.

Fire Wrecks Buffalo Warehouse

A choking pall of smoke rolls over Buffalo, N. Y., as firemen battle a general alarm blaze that gutted a 10-story warehouse near the downtown section yesterday. The flames leaped across the street and damaged a smaller building.

Would Take Poison

Lacked Strength To Live Up To Military Ideal, Dean Says

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP)—Maj. Gen. William F. Dean testified today he himself lacked the "intelligence or strength" to live up to the military ideal and tell his Communist captors nothing but his name, rank and serial number.

The 54-year-old general, for three years a war prisoner in Korea, appeared at a military court of inquiry as a witness for Col. Frank Schwable, Marine flyer who falsely "confessed" to germ warfare under Communist pressure.

Dean withheld his personal views on the conduct of Schwable, who may face a court-martial if the four-member inquiry court rules against him. The court also can recommend no charges be filed.

Would Carry Poison

Under questioning Dean testified that if he ever went to war again he would carry poison to swallow if he were captured—so as to avoid giving military information to the enemy.

Dean said he would have welcomed death during his gruelling captivity. He told a story he's told before—that he once tried to commit suicide to avoid talking, since the thing he most feared was that under physical torture he might expose U. S. military secrets.

Schwable's counsel, Col. Paul B. Sherman, asked if it is realistic to expect a captured officer to stick to the Geneva convention on treatment of war prisoners. This requires a prisoner to give only his name, rank and serial number.

"Dividing Line" Necessary

"There has to be a dividing line," Dean replied, "and that's as good a line as any. It's the ideal we should strive for; the Communists won't stop (their questioning) anywhere."

"Do you believe it possible for anyone to stop after giving name, rank and serial number"? Sherman persisted.

"It is hard for me to judge others," Dean said. "I didn't have the intelligence or strength to stop there."

Dean said he did refuse to broadcast for the Communists or to tell them where South Korean President Rhee could be found.

U. S., Japan Sign Mutual Defense Pact

TOKYO, Tuesday, March 9 (AP)—Japan and the United States, bitter enemies only nine years ago, took a big step yesterday toward becoming armed allies against the threat of Communist aggression.

U. S. Ambassador John Allison and Japanese Foreign Minister Katsuo Okazaki signed the long pending U. S.-Japan mutual defense pact. Allison said the pact "takes us one step nearer the time when the United States can withdraw its forces from Japan."

It still must be ratified by Japan's Diet before going into effect but Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida was confident this could be accomplished despite Socialist and minor leftist opposition.

Once ratified the pact will:

Put an estimated 100 to 130 million dollars into Japan's economy for military purposes the first year and an untold amount in succeeding years.

Furnish Japan destroyers, jet planes, tanks and jeeps and help boost the defense force from 120,000 to 160,000 men in a year — although still far short of the 300,000-man force favored by the United States.

Provide a 700-man U. S. military advisory group to serve with the Japanese defense force.

The defense pact does not specify details of the military aid the United States will supply. These must be spelled out in subsequent negotiations. But a well-placed American source assured "We can support any program Japan wants."

A companion agreement provides for importing 50 million dollars of U. S. surplus grain — 500,000 tons of wheat, 100,000 tons of barley. The government will sell the grain domestically, raising money for guns and munitions.

$1,750,000,000 Roads Bill Clears Senate

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP)—The House today passed and sent to the Senate a $1,750,000,000 roads bill.

Rejecting all amendments to the administration-sponsored measure, the House approved it by voice vote.

The bill would authorize unprecedented federal spending on roads of 875 million dollars annually for the two years beginning July 1, 1955.

Personally endorsed by President Eisenhower, the measure would give states matching this money more leeway in some respects in how it is spent.

Motorist Blames Crash On Slippery Nylon Seat Covers

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 8 (AP)—The way E. C. Meeks told it today, his car didn't skid when he turned that corner—but he did.

It was those slippery nylon seat covers. Meeks, 33, said he slid clean across the seat, lost control, and the car careened into the wall of a service station.

"Now I've heard everything," said acting Traffic Court Judge Dave Ballon who fined Meeks $26 for reckless driving and $16 for not having a driver's license.

Statehood Bill Fight Set Today

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP)—The Senate took up Hawaii statehood briefly today, but put off until tomorrow the big fight over tying Alaska into the proposal.

In rapid succession, virtually unbroken by discussion, the upper chamber approved amendments made to the bill by the Senate Interior and Insular Affairs Committee.

Then the measure was opened up for general amendment from the floor.

The first such move—a proposal by Sen. Anderson (D-NM) to add an Alaska statehood section—will be subject to consideration tomorrow morning at the Democrats' first Senate conference of the session.

Whether Democrats will emerge from that meeting committed to go down the line solidly for Alaska is uncertain. At least one, Sen. Long (D-La), has voted in the Interior Committee against approving either a combined Hawaii-Alaska bill or an Alaska-only measure. Long, however, voted in favor of the Hawaii bill.

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador, March 8 (AP)—A strong earth shock caused considerable alarm throughout most of the country just after noon today. There were no immediate reports of damage or casualties.

Md. Family Is $17 Poorer After Radio Riches Quest

NEW YORK, March 8 (AP)—The Welfare Department washed its hands today of needy people stranded here in quest of a handout from the radio-television show "Strike It Rich."

The latest case was a jobless Maryland relief client who brought his pregnant wife and nine children here by bus today—broke and hungry—in search of giveaway riches from the show. They had never even seen or heard it on the air. The children ranged in age from one year to 17.

Michael Jaskulski and his family were promptly bundled on a train back to Port Deposit, Md. It cost him $17 to get the family here. It cost the city nearly three times as much to get rid of them.

Welfare Commissioner Henry L. McCarthy promptly announced:

"The Department of Welfare will no longer take care of people coming into the city to get on 'Strike it Rich.' If needy people are impelled to come here to get on the program, then let 'Strike it Rich' take care of them."

The show's producer, Walter Framer, declined comment on McCarthy's ultimatum. However, he repeated that the show warns listeners not to come here without an invitation.

The Jaskulski family arrived before dawn today with about $2 in cash and a bottle of milk gone sour.

The father is a tug worker who went on relief after he was injured at work. He added that he is able to work again now.

They said they live in two rooms of a windowless, leaky $15-a-month shack.

Jaskulski said a neighbor, Mrs. Edna Pierce, wrote a letter intended to get them on "Strike it Rich." But instead of sending it, the family decided to come ahead without waiting and try to get on the program.

Sen. M'Carthy Irked As GOP Bypasses Him

Refused Free Time, Wisconsin Legislator Threatens Networks

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP)—The Republican party passed over Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) today and gave Vice President Nixon the job of answering a Democratic blast by Adlai Stevenson that the party is "half McCarthy and half Eisenhower."

But McCarthy said television and radio networks would give him free time too to answer Stevenson or they would "learn what the law is."

GOP Chairman Leonard W. Hall moved in ahead of McCarthy to get free radio and TV time equal to that given Stevenson, titular head of the Democrats, for a speech at Miami Beach Saturday night.

Later Hall announced Nixon would appear on a combined radio-TV broadcast Saturday to speak not only on the Republican party leadership and the administration's program but also to reply to Stevenson.

McCarthy Not Satisfied

That didn't entirely satisfy McCarthy.

On reaching New York from Miami, he said:

"I am delegating to no one the authority to defend me. In addition I intend to do everything I can to make the television companies live up to their obligations."

The senator said he would continue to demand time for himself "and I will not countenance anything else."

McCarthy called Stevenson's speech "an intemperate attack on the Republican party and a lengthy, vicious attack on me personally."

GOP Chairman Hall said that Nixon, in replying to Stevenson, would speak "as the official representative of the Republican party in this matter."

Free Time Refused Senator

Stevenson, in an address to a Democratic rally in Florida, said a group of "political plungers" had persuaded President Eisenhower to adopt McCarthy's tactics for the GOP as a whole.

Nixon will speak Saturday night from 10:30 to 11 p.m. (EST).

Both CBS and NBC announced they would give the party a rebuttal period but were turning down free time for McCarthy.

Interviewed in Miami, the Wisconsin senator declared he personally wants 30 minutes on the air to answer, among other things, Stevenson's charge that he is sowing "slander and dissension" across the land.

If the free time is not forthcoming, McCarthy said, he will take the question up with the Federal Communications Commission, which regulates radio and television stations.

110 Puerto Ricans Seized In Probe

NEW YORK, March 8 (AP)—More than 110 Puerto Ricans, including the wife of a would-be assassin of former President Harry S. Truman, were rounded up in New York and Chicago today in a swift probe into the shooting of five congressmen in Washington last week.

Mrs. Rosa Collazo, secretary of the local branch of the Puerto Rican Nationalist party, was subpoenaed before one of the three grand juries probing party membership here. Her husband, Oscar, is serving a life sentence for an attempt to assassinate Truman on Nov. 1, 1950.

Today's roundup of 91 persons here and 20 in Chicago was called the largest peacetime roundup of federal witnesses in connection with a single conspiracy.

The investigation was ordered by the Department of Justice after three men and one woman were captured in Washington last Monday in the shooting of the congressmen.

All four claimed membership in the Nationalist party of Puerto Rico, which advocates immediate independence for the Caribbean island.

Four ROK Planes Crash

SEOUL, March 8 (AP)—The Defense Ministry announced today that four South Korean air force Mustang fighter planes crashed into the Sea of Japan Thursday and Friday and a brigadier general was among the four pilots killed.

The announcement blamed a "sudden change of weather."

House Labor Group Votes Down Proposal To Outlaw Union Shops

Move Defeated By Vote Of 18-6

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP)—The House Labor Committee voted down today a move aimed at barring union shops in labor contracts. The Senate committee, meanwhile, put off for two days consideration of amendments to the Taft-Hartley labor law.

Chances of early passage of T-H amendments proposed by President Eisenhower appeared slim. There was a likelihood of further hearings dealing with federal and state regulation of labor disputes.

Chairman H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ) of the Senate committee said he expects Eisenhower to make his federal-vs.-state recommendations this week and that if they call for hearings "then we'll have hearings."

That would delay committee action on the T-H amendments until mid-April at the earliest.

The House committee voted down the anti-union shop proposal 18-6, Chairman McConnell (R-Pa) reported after a closed-door session.

He said the proposal, offered by Rep. Wint Smith (R-Kan) would have rendered illegal all contracts providing for union shops and maintenance of membership.

Under a union shop, now permitted by the Taft-Hartley law, workers covered by union-management contracts are required to join the union or quit their jobs.

Elsewhere on the labor front today:

Secretary of Labor Mitchell went before a Senate appropriations subcommittee to outline his department's 340 million dollar budget requests for the fiscal year beginning next July 1.

Mitchell called on Congress to increase the department budget by about 40 million dollars, mostly to provide for unemployment benefits.

The secretary said the administration is operating on the assumption that "there will be some increase in unemployment" in the next fiscal year although there will "continue to be a high level economy."

Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill) called for a study of the International Labor Organization to see whether the United Nations agency is being used in an effort to promote treaties which become domestic law in the United States.

This was a throwback to the recent Senate controversy over the question of curbing presidential power to make treaties and executive agreements.

STAGEHAND STRIKE HITS MET — Rudolf Bing, Metropolitan Opera general manager, hands part of scenery used in "Norma" to John Gutman (not shown), assistant general manager, during a rehearsal yesterday. In spite of a stagehand strike, it was decided the company would try to give a performance without scenery—for the first time in its history. Then, with less than an hour remaining before last night's production of "Tannhauser," the stagehands agreed to work and negotiate again today.

Senate Passes Air Academy Bill

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP)—The Senate approved by a resounding voice vote today the establishment of a separate Air Force Academy, after being assured its location hasn't been decided. The bill authorizes 26 million dollars to get the project started.

Before voting the senators bickered for two hours on where the academy should be built and how Congress should appoint its cadets.

Sen. Gore (D-Tenn) shouted the only audible "No" to the measure.

The legislation now goes back to the House for consideration of several Senate amendments to the similar bill it passed in January.

Gore opposed setting up a third military academy along the lines of the Army's at West Point and the Navy's at Annapolis, on the ground this was contrary to armed services unification Congress had ordered.

Sen. Saltonstall (R-Mass), floor manager for the bill as chairman of the Armed Services Committee, told Gore the Air Force needed to train its young career officers as specialists, just as the Army and Navy now do.

Earlier several senators put in plugs for location of the air academy within their states, including Holland (D-Fla), Daniel (D-Tex), Carlson (R-Kan), Butler (R-Neb) and Bennett (R-Utah).

One member of the troupe did manage to take a solo bow on the otherwise empty stage. He was "Trigger," Rogers' horse.

Non-Red "Oath" Is Proposed For Capitol Visitors

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP) — Rep. Edith Nourse Rogers (R-Mass) today asked Congress to bar from the Capitol any visitor who won't say he or she isn't a present or former member of the Communist party.

The rule wouldn't apply to witnesses summoned before congressional committees.

Mrs. Rogers told the House she introduced the proposal after giving it "tremendous thought" since last Monday's shooting in the House gallery, which wounded five congressmen.

Her measure calls for setting up an 11-member security board headed by the vice president and the speaker of the House. Other members would be three House members, three senators, the sergeants-at-arms of both chambers and the Capitol architect.

The board would supervise a security office which would consist of a security officer, a deputy and assistants "trained in the arts and sciences of security operations."

Under Mrs. Rogers' bill, all visitors to the Capitol would obtain passes from congressmen or the security officer. Such a pass couldn't be issued until a visitor answered "No" to the question: "Are you or have you ever been a member of the Communist party?"

After last week's wild shooting by four Puerto Rican Nationalists the House and Senate chambers were closed to visitors except those who obtained passes from congressmen. This later was modified to admit conducted visiting groups without passes, since Capitol police didn't consider them a danger.

Britain Brushes Off Fingerprint Protest

LONDON, March 8 (AP)—The government today brushed off a demand that it protest to the United States against fingerprinting of Britons who seek American visas.

Laborite Victor Yates, who has complained that he had to submit to fingerprinting twice before visiting the United States last year, asked in the House of Commons what Britain was doing to get the practice stopped.

Foreign Under Secretary Arthur Dodds-Parker replied the government of the United States or any other nation was "entitled to lay down such rules as it thought fit for the admission and registration of aliens."

Roger Bacon, inventor of the magnifying glass, was the first to suggest artificial aid for those with impaired eyesight.

Britain's Comets Due To Take Air Again March 23

LONDON, March 8 (AP)—Britain's grounded Comet jet airliners will take to the air again March 23 if final test flights prove satisfactory, Civil Aviation Minister Alan Lennox-Boyd told the House of Commons today.

The government-owned British Overseas Airways Corp. grounded all seven of its 500-mile-an-hour Comets last Jan. 11 after three fatal crashes in 10 months. Aircraft engineers made more than 50 modifications in the plane after examination.

Salvage crews are still probing the waters off the Mediterranean island of Elba for pieces of wreckage from the last crashed Comet which carried 35 persons to their deaths Jan. 10. Results of inquiries into the tragedy have not yet been announced.

Arms Aid Outlay Over $7 Billions

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP)—The United States in a little over four years has supplied $7,700,000,000 in military aid to strengthen other free nations against the Soviet threat, President Eisenhower told Congress today.

He said almost half the total was sent during 1953, with shipments declining during the second half of last year. This, Eisenhower said, was a year in which the North Atlantic Treaty Organization nations spent over 11½ billion dollars in bulwarking their defenses, with a moderate increase indicated during 1954.

Last year's U. S. military shipments, the President said, totalled $3,800,000,000, a 60 per cent increase over 1952.

Eisenhower pictured many nations as growing economically stronger and less dependent on U. S. help. But he said "as long as the harsh threat to world peace exists our country will continue to shoulder the heavy obligations of world leadership."

The President said this nation's economic and military assistance programs are being constantly revised but "cannot be drastically cut without undoing much of the rewarding success which has been so painstakingly and laboriously achieved."

A ton of peanuts in the shell will yield about 580 pounds of peanut oil.

Jury Told Wable Orally Admitted Killing Truckers

GREENSBURG, Pa., March 8 (AP)—A former cellmate of John Wesley Wable testified today that Wable admitted last September he was the gunman who shot to death two truckdrivers on the Pennsylvania Turnpike. A detective also testified Wable confessed he was involved in the slayings.

Charles Welch, 20, of near Uniontown, Pa., said he and the 24-year-old Wable, of Ohiopyle, Pa., shared the same cell in the Fayette County jail in Uniontown last September. Welch said:

"One evening, he (Wable) asked me if I'd believe something if he told me. He told me he was the turnpike killer. I said 'Well, you could be and you couldn't be.'"

Welch and Wable were in jail at that time for minor offenses.

Wable is on trial for his life in the slaying of truck driver Harry F. Pitts, 39, of Bowling Green, Va., last July 28. He also is accused of killing Lester B. Woodward, 39, of Duncannon, Pa., three days before. Both were shot in the head as they slept in their trucks alongside the pike.

Detective Merle D. Musick, of Westmoreland County, told the jury Wable orally confessed he was implicated in the shootings while being brought here by train from Albuquerque, N.M., where he was captured.

Pope Gains Strength

VATICAN CITY, March 8 (AP)—Nearly half Pope Pius' breakfast was solid food today for the first time in the 42 days of illness that has confined the 78-year-old pontiff to his Vatican apartment.

Vatican sources gave this information as evidence of the Pope's slow, but steady return to strength.

ANNAPOLIS, March 8 (AP) — A total of 2,566 visitors registered at the tour desk in the Statehouse during February to set a new record for the month, the Department of Information said today.

Non-Red "Oath" Is Proposed For Capitol Visitors

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP) — Rep. Edith Nourse Rogers (R-Mass) today asked Congress to bar from the Capitol any visitor who won't say he or she isn't a present or former member of the Communist party.

The rule wouldn't apply to witnesses summoned before congressional committees.

Mrs. Rogers told the House she introduced the proposal after giving it "tremendous thought" since last Monday's shooting in the House gallery, which wounded five congressmen.

Her measure calls for setting up an 11-member security board headed by the vice president and the speaker of the House. Other members would be three House members, three senators, the sergeants-at-arms of both chambers and the Capitol architect.

The board would supervise a security office which would consist of a security officer, a deputy and assistants "trained in the arts and sciences of security operations."

Under Mrs. Rogers' bill, all visitors to the Capitol would obtain passes from congressmen or the security officer. Such a pass couldn't be issued until a visitor answered "No" to the question: "Are you or have you ever been a member of the Communist party?"

After last week's wild shooting by four Puerto Rican Nationalists the House and Senate chambers were closed to visitors except those who obtained passes from congressmen. This later was modified to admit conducted visiting groups without passes, since Capitol police didn't consider them a danger.

Britain Brushes Off Fingerprint Protest

LONDON, March 8 (AP)—The government today brushed off a demand that it protest to the United States against fingerprinting of Britons who seek American visas.

Laborite Victor Yates, who has complained that he had to submit to fingerprinting twice before visiting the United States last year, asked in the House of Commons what Britain was doing to get the practice stopped.

Foreign Under Secretary Arthur Dodds-Parker replied the government of the United States or any other nation was "entitled to lay down such rules as it thought fit for the admission and registration of aliens."

Roger Bacon, inventor of the magnifying glass, was the first to suggest artificial aid for those with impaired eyesight.

Britain's Comets Due To Take Air Again March 23

LONDON, March 8 (AP)—Britain's grounded Comet jet airliners will take to the air again March 23 if final test flights prove satisfactory, Civil Aviation Minister Alan Lennox-Boyd told the House of Commons today.

The government-owned British Overseas Airways Corp. grounded all seven of its 500-mile-an-hour Comets last Jan. 11 after three fatal crashes in 10 months. Aircraft engineers made more than 50 modifications in the plane after examination.

Salvage crews are still probing the waters off the Mediterranean island of Elba for pieces of wreckage from the last crashed Comet which carried 35 persons to their deaths Jan. 10. Results of inquiries into the tragedy have not yet been announced.

Arms Aid Outlay Over $7 Billions

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP)—The United States in a little over four years has supplied $7,700,000,000 in military aid to strengthen other free nations against the Soviet threat, President Eisenhower told Congress today.

He said almost half the total was sent during 1953, with shipments declining during the second half of last year. This, Eisenhower said, was a year in which the North Atlantic Treaty Organization nations spent over 11½ billion dollars in bulwarking their defenses, with a moderate increase indicated during 1954.

Last year's U. S. military shipments, the President said, totalled $3,800,000,000, a 60 per cent increase over 1952.

Eisenhower pictured many nations as growing economically stronger and less dependent on U. S. help. But he said "as long as the harsh threat to world peace exists our country will continue to shoulder the heavy obligations of world leadership."

The President said this nation's economic and military assistance programs are being constantly revised but "cannot be drastically cut without undoing much of the rewarding success which has been so painstakingly and laboriously achieved."

A ton of peanuts in the shell will yield about 580 pounds of peanut oil.

Jury Told Wable Orally Admitted Killing Truckers

GREENSBURG, Pa., March 8 (AP)—A former cellmate of John Wesley Wable testified today that Wable admitted last September he was the gunman who shot to death two truckdrivers on the Pennsylvania Turnpike. A detective also testified Wable confessed he was involved in the slayings.

Charles Welch, 20, of near Uniontown, Pa., said he and the 24-year-old Wable, of Ohiopyle, Pa., shared the same cell in the Fayette County jail in Uniontown last September. Welch said:

"One evening, he (Wable) asked me if I'd believe something if he told me. He told me he was the turnpike killer. I said 'Well, you could be and you couldn't be.'"

Welch and Wable were in jail at that time for minor offenses.

Wable is on trial for his life in the slaying of truck driver Harry F. Pitts, 39, of Bowling Green, Va., last July 28. He also is accused of killing Lester B. Woodward, 39, of Duncannon, Pa., three days before. Both were shot in the head as they slept in their trucks alongside the pike.

Detective Merle D. Musick, of Westmoreland County, told the jury Wable orally confessed he was implicated in the shootings while being brought here by train from Albuquerque, N.M., where he was captured.

Pope Gains Strength

VATICAN CITY, March 8 (AP)—Nearly half Pope Pius' breakfast was solid food today for the first time in the 42 days of illness that has confined the 78-year-old pontiff to his Vatican apartment.

Vatican sources gave this information as evidence of the Pope's slow, but steady return to strength.

Vulnerable Industry

No one likes to be told that he is at the mercy of some force beyond his control. But a great deal of American industry is in this category.

This is the essence of a warning issued by Lt. Gen. Leslie R. Groves, wartime chief of the Manhattan Project and now himself an industrialist, who has a knack for reiterating bald facts which are so true as to be axiomatic.

He notes, for instance, that military defense and American industry are closely akin—that the former cannot exist without the efforts of the latter, and that national defense is both a military and civilian problem.

The basis of the whole problem is the American philosophy of letting the enemy hit first—a philosophy which has been expressed for world consumption on many occasions.

The knowledge that Russia has numbers of high speed, high altitude atomic bombers spotted strategically beyond the polar cap makes the air defense problem urgent. The nation is spending $5,000,000,000 a year to this end and devoting brains and manpower to the problem without stint.

But the "new look" as exemplified in a revolution in military defense planning has not been accompanied by a concerted effort to ready industry for a blow. While civil defense officials talk of dispersion, the facts are that while there has been some dispersion of industry, a great deal of it has been done to take advantage of new labor markets, new power sources, and other factors.

While a military defense pattern is now being evolved which takes into account the terrible one-for-one ratio of the H-bomb (one bomb, one city) it cannot be said that any such industrial problem is being tackled in earnest. Would such a project be so huge as to successfully defy the resourcefulness of man?

British "New Look"

United States armed forces aren't unique in undergoing a tactical and strategic evolution which will bring about a "new look," a term which has become a national byword. Britain is going through a comparable evolutionary change.

Lord Dudley, British air secretary, told Parliament in a matter of fact manner the other day that atomic bombs are being delivered to the Royal Air Force for storage, and that he anticipated no particular safety problem.

This process apparently will be similar to storage and dispersal tactics used by American units in Britain, and consists of stockpiling certain parts of atomic weapons in one place and the critical parts at another.

Meanwhile, the British army, which has been assigned the guided missile chores, is getting acquainted with the new air defense rockets which were tested successfully last year at Britain's great Woomera missile range in Australia. The new look is also reflected in the gradual shifting of emphasis within the royal navy from large capital ships to smaller attack vessels which would be most effective for infighting along the European coastline or for antisubmarine work.

Britain anticipated the new American defense philosophy when tight defense budgets and a completely new tack in strategic thinking led her to abandon the traditional "balanced force" concept and pin her hopes on increased air strength.

One need not be a deep strategist to draw the conclusion that Britain's new look and the American, operating in concert, will cause Russia, or any combination of aggressors, to pause and think before pulling a trigger.

Old Book

There seems to be substantiation for the description by Frederick B. Adams Jr., director of New York's Pierpont Morgan Library, of a work acquired by the library as the most important printed book ever brought to this country.

The work, printed in Latin about 1450 for the Roman Catholic Diocese of Constance, Germany, is believed to have been turned out by Johannes Gutenberg, inventor of printing, before his famous Gutenberg Bible. Only three copies of the Constance work are known to be in existence.

The Morgan Library acquisition, which involved payment of more than $75,000 in cash and some rare books in trade, was obtained from H. P. Kraus, antique book seller, who bought it from the Capuchin monastery at Romont, Switzerland.

Europeans believe the work was printed in or near Basel, Switzerland. All three surviving copies—not more than 100 are believed to have been printed—are bound in leather decorated with stamps known to have been used by Basel binders, and the paper bears a Basel watermark.

Existence of Constance work did not become known to printing historians until the end of the 19th Century. All investigations led to the theory it could only have been printed by Gutenberg, and obviously prior to the Gutenberg Bible, which showed much more expert craftsmanship.

Training Sole Hope

Sometimes it seems as if the entire nation is engaged in a campaign to reduce traffic deaths and injuries. If so, it is one of the most frustrating campaigns in history. Progress, where there has been progress, has been slow and discouraging.

Laws and regulations have seldom brought the desired results in educating motorists to drive more safely, and to seek security through their own efforts. Radar is now being employed on some highways in an effort to halt speeding.

Safety of child pedestrians is one of the serious traffic problems confronting the nation. Many communities have become alarmed over the increasing hazards to the lives of children.

Efforts in schools and through other agencies outside the home to make children conscious of the dangers of traffic have been beneficial, but have not solved the problem. Only parents can check the childish impulse to dash into the street, or implant firmly in their young minds that streets are dangerous at all times.

A child thus armed will develop into an adult with great respect for the automobile as a potential killer. Public schools deserve great credit for their efforts in this direction, but they cannot replace the home as a training ground.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

The Small Intestine Goes To Work

Our last discussion on digestion took us thru the first part of the small intestine. This is the busiest workshop of the entire alimentary canal; it is here that secretions from the intestines, pancreas, and liver mix with the stomach contents.

Food particles are chemically altered and broken down into molecules small enough to pass thru the intestinal wall. This process of absorption is accomplished in the lower portion of the small intestine. The lining of this section of the bowel is as wrinkled as a prune.

How does the body take up the finished product? In the walls of these "wrinkles" are located millions of tiny projections (villi). These columns contain blood and lymphatic vessels which carry away the nutritive elements as soon as they pass thru the lining and distribute them to cells and tissues throughout the body for immediate use or storage, as the case may be. By this time, the steak or egg eaten for lunch has been broken down to millions of protein molecules, known as amino acids; and the potatoes and string beans have been reduced to simple sugars and starches. These molecules penetrate the walls of the capillaries and pass into the general circulation immediately. Fats take a more roundabout route thru the lymphatic system. This is a slow moving system of canals that unite with one another until they end in a duct that drains directly into the aorta, just above the heart. Ultimately, the blood carries the nutriment throughout the body.

Food remains in the small intestine three to eight hours, long enough to assure absorption of every absorbable bit. Water and roughage remain and, as the churning movements continue, they are propelled directly into the large bowel, where the final phases of digestion take place.

Irritation of the wall (enteritis) is associated with several disorders. Food or chemical poisoning, the consumption of indigestible articles, and over-eating are examples, as well as allergy, bacterial and viral invasion, and intestinal parasites. Enteritis also may accompany certain systemic diseases.

One form of enteritis, regional ileitis, is easily mistaken for appendicitis. There is pain in the right lower abdomen associated with diarrhea and fever. The sulfonamides or streptomycin help occasionally and ACTH or cortisone often have an immediate effect upon the condition; following administration of the hormone, appetite improves and diarrhea subsides. The results are not always permanent but offer a breathing spell while the body is built up to tackle its own problem. Surgery is advised when simpler measures fail to control the disease.

TOMORROW: Winter is on the wane.

DEFICIENCY DISEASE

V. C. writes: What is non-tropical sprue?

REPLY

Ordinary sprue. Two decades ago we thought this disease was due to infection and that the variety existing in the tropics differed from that found in temperate zones. We now know that sprue results from a deficiency in the diet, whether is occurs in the tropics or elsewhere.

INFLAMED COLON

S. D. writes: Is dieting the best treatment for colitis?

REPLY

A bland diet helps because it leaves little residue, which gives the bowel a rest. But diet is not the entire treatment because there are various types of colitis (spastic, bacterial, and influenzal), each requiring specific care.

WEIGHT GAIN PLAN

F. P. writes: I'm nontubercular but would like to know if the new anti-tuberculosis drugs would help me put on weight. I've had no luck with all the other methods tried.

REPLY

This plan has been used, but with questionable results. When these drugs are administered to victims of tuberculosis, the gain in weight that follows is due to a decrease in the disease process and the improved sense of well being. If they are given to a normal person, appetite may improve for psychological reasons.

NO QUARANTINE

D. F. writes: Should people with syphilis be quarantined?

REPLY

No. The contagious aspect of the disease is quickly brought under control with modern treatment. Meanwhile, the victims of active syphilis should follow the rules of good hygiene to the letter, for the protection of others.

CHOKED GLAND

W. J. S. writes: I have a wen, caused by a sebaceous gland on top of my forehead, the size of a walnut. My doctor says he can remove it. Is this the accepted treatment?

REPLY

Yes. These cysts represent oil (sebaceous) glands that have become plugged and enlarged by the accumulation of secretions. Surgical excision is the only cure.

French Refuse American Training For Indochinese Troops; McCarthy Will Make His Counsel The Scapegoat; Veep Runs For Senate Again

WASHINGTON — The headlines and Hullabaloo over McCarthy vs. Eisenhower have obscured a lot of other things happening around the world, some just as important to the free world as the battle over McCarthyism.

One is an indignant though unpublished veto by French Foreign Minister Bidault of the American suggestion that the United States train native Indochinese troops.

When the proposal was put up to the French that U. S. military men use the same training tactics they so successfully used with the Greeks and South Koreans, Bidault told the American embassy: As long as French troops and not Americans are fighting and dying in Indochina, there will be no American program.

Bidault's answer startled the Pentagon which had been planning to send General "Iron Mike" O'Daniel to Indochina. O'Daniel will still go, but with no authority to train troops.

Meanwhile, it's reported that at a secret meeting in Peiping, the Russians and Chinese promised heavy armament and troops to the Indochinese Reds. All indications are that Indochina will sooner or later go Communist.

McCarthy's Scapegoat

Senator McCarthy is looking for a new chief counsel for his investigating committee. Roy Cohn, the brash, brilliant young prosecuting attorney now holding that job, is slated for the axe.

Chief reason is that McCarthy needs a scapegoat. The heat from the White House has been too great; also from other members of the McCarthy subcommittee.

Another reason for axing Cohn is that the Army has kept a record of his telephone conversations on behalf of his friend Gerard David Scnine in which he sought favors for the young ex-McCarthy investigator.

Significantly, McCarthy is trying to find a lawyer of the Jewish faith to replace Cohn. He considers this important in order to offset the charge that he is anti-semitic.

The Veep's Comeback

One of the grand old men of American politics, Alben "The Veep" Barkley, is expected to announce this week that he will stage a comeback to Washington.

Barkley, now 76 years old, but sprier than most men of 40, has been speaking all over Kentucky and will soon announce for the Senate seat he vacated when elected vice president in 1948.

Political dopesters predict that he is certain to win. Kentucky has come to love Alben as it does bourbon and race horses; so that almost no Republican candidate could stop him, not even one as able as Senator John Sherman Cooper.

Cooper, a former governor of Kentucky and once before elected to the Senate, is one of the most popular Republicans in a state traditionally Democratic. It is said that if Cooper had been born 50 miles father west he would have been a Democrat and could stay in the Senate indefinitely. However, during the Civil War, the political line separated Kentucky's eastern mountains from the pro-South midlands, and the state has been divided politically ever since.

So it's almost certain that the familiar face of the veep will be seen once again around the Capitol.

Johnson Calls Caucus

It has been two months since Congress convened, and at long last Senator Lyndon Johnson of Texas, the so-called Democratic leader, has called a Democratic caucus.

Ordinarily a party caucus is held at the very start of a congressional session, but Johnson carefully avoided calling one until this week.

Reason for ducking usual procedure was the fear that Democratic senators opposing him would stage a rump revolt.

Meanwhile, Lyndon has been complaining privately to colleagues that his hands are tied by conservative forces back in Texas, such as oilman Hunt and the Shivercrats. If he antagonizes them he fears he'll arouse opposition for re-election.

This caused the Louisville Courier-Journal, one of the leading Democratic paper of the nation, to ask Johnson editorially and his assistant, Senator Clements of Kentucky, which was most important—the Democratic party or Texas opposition to Johnson. The main object of the Democratic leadership in the Senate, the Courner-Journal chided, seemed to be to conduct the Democratic party for the benefit of Lyndon Johnson, not for the benefit of the nation.

These Days

Legal Ethics

In the mutterings against the confusions of an era of rejection of ancient and established forms, various professions turn to a self-examination of their procedures and seek to re-establish by self-legislative ethical codes of conduct which used to be accepted as part of a way of life.

I recently partook of such fare at the Institute of Legal Ethics at the College of Law of the University of Florida at Gainesville, Fla.

The problem presented to the assembled panel was what the layman thought of the legal profession, which is not a sound question to ask because there are all sorts of lawyers and all sorts of laymen. For instance, those lawyers who are most concerned about legal ethics generally practice them behind closed doors, keeping their names and affairs out of newspapers, living happily in an obscurity of their own choosing.

They regard it as unethical for lawyers to advertise directly or indirectly and fear that the lawyer who gets his name and photograph into newspapers is really practicing an indirect form of advertising. They themselves eschew such matters as interviews and comments on great subjects and would never soil their hands by such ugly matters as murders and divorces, although crime and disruption are enormously important in our society.

A public, however, is more interested in the human side of the law. A murder is always fascinating, particularly if the murderer happens to be a woman. The people's instinct in the matter is correct because murders and similar horrors mirror the society in which we live. The duel between Alexander Hamilton and Aaron Burr is a classical example of a murder which makes everlastingly interesting reading. A kidnaping is important to the community not only in which is occurs, but everywhere in the country. Parents would resent a censorship which kept such news from them.

Such a nuptial battle as involved Bobo Rockefeller or the James Roosevelts is appealing news to most Americans who are disturbed by a marriage system which only too often is a disguished form of polygamy or polyandry, arranged by lawyers for profit and the participants for their convenience. The public likes big names on the general principle that the proletariat always finds it delightful when the upper classes slip. It may be catering to vulgar tastes to tell the truth about it, it is the participants who are the vulgarians.

The gentlemen among whom I spent this delightful evening on ethics criticized the ethics of those lawyers and even judges who use such occasions as divorces to get all the free advertising they can. A reporter knows how anxious the lawyers are for a little headline or a photograph. A good sign is when the lawyer spells out his name to make sure that it does not appear incorrectly in the public prints. Judges are malefactors in this sense and drop a well-chosen bon mot to get a laugh, in the hope that their pearls of sarcasm, if not wisdom, will find their way to posterity.

The ethical lawyers, who hide their fame beneath a self-imposed obscurity, may look down their noses at these lawyers, always forgetting that the public does not, and that while their fame may be enormous within the profession, most citizens never heard of them. Their influence upon community, therefore, is hardly noticeable, whereas the others are regarded as "The Legal Profession" because they are known.

If the ethical lawyers want it to be otherwise, they have to go among the people, but then they would have to explain the enormous cost of any brush with the law, the great delays in the courts which not only add to costs but often create such confusion that the citizen for several years does not know where he stands and has to live with a legal cloud over his head.

They would have a hard time making the laymen understand why the barnacles on the rules of evidence make a trial, which ought to take a few hours, last days on end while the lawyers maneuver over what is and what is not admissible. Most of it sounds silly. The lawyers can do much to clean all this up, but they cannot do it by censorship, suppression, or by advising the citizens, rather than lawyers, about ethics.

The Tax Battle

WASHINGTON

The bitterest legislative battle of this session of Congress is shaping up around the tax issue.

The Democrats are united as rarely before behind Senator Walter George's proposal to increase exemptions for all taxpayers and their dependents. Largely on the advice of Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey, President Eisenhower has decided to throw his personal prestige and the power of his administration into the scales, in an attempt to beat the George proposal.

This courageous decision by the President was conveyed last Thursday to 60 key Republican representatives from close congressional districts, by Vice President Richard Nixon. At a meeting in the Congressional Hotel, Nixon told the assembled representatives that the President felt that the George proposal had to be beaten at whatever cost.

The President intended, Nixon said, to appeal directly to the country on this issue, with at least one radio and television broadcast. He would explain why it would be wrong and irresponsible to increase exemptions, and thus to increase the prospective deficit by billions of dollars. And, Nixon warned, it was up to the Republicans in the House to back up the President.

The fight was already as good as lost in the Senate, Nixon frankly admitted—at least three Republican senators were certain to defect. The President could hardly veto the whole tax bill, throwing the entire legislative program into total confusion. Therefore it was up to the House.

Ike Is The Key

He knew, Nixon said, how tough it was to stand up to the Democrats on such an issue in an election year. But it was often good politics to fight on the seemingly unpopular side of an issue, especially if the voters sensed in their hearts that it was the right side. Moreover, the voters hardly ever cast their ballots on the basis of a candidate's stand on any one issue.

Their votes reflected, instead, the general impression of the candidate. The real key to this general impression next fall, Nixon said, will be whether a Republican candidate had worked with President Eisenhower and for his program. The President's popularity was far and away the Republican's greatest political asset, the vice president said—work against the President, and you throw away this asset.

Those who heard Nixon were much impressed. And it will take more than one talk by the vice president to line up the paper-thin Republican majority. For one thing more than 20 Republican representatives have already tossed into the hopper their own bills increasing the tax exemption. Even so, Speaker Joseph Martin and the other House leaders are confident that they can whip their party into line.

The Democrats claim to be equally confident—and the Democrats must be given credit for a brilliant, if perhaps slightly cynical, political strategy. When Senator George was persuaded, reportedly by Senate Minority Leader Lyndon Johnson and House Minority Leader Sam Rayburn, to sponsor increased exemptions, the proposal was lent an aura of impeccable conservatism and responsibility.

Reasons For Stand

The increased exemptions would particularly benefit people with large families in the low-income groups. The administration-backed measure for a 10 per cent tax credit on dividends would particularly benefit people with large unearned incomes. As soon as the administration tax bill is introduced into the House, the Democrats plan to tie the two issues together by introducing a motion to strike out the dividend credit, and to increase exemptions from $600 to $700.

"Boy," one Democrat said jubilantly, "I can hear it already. The Republican party—the party that won't give a poor man with four kids a break, and hands over $90,000 to the million-dollar-a-year man."

Yet there are very cogent reasons for the firm stand which Secretary Humphrey has persuaded the President to adopt. A $100 increase in exemption would cost the Treasury $2.3 billion, and the $200 increase which Senator George favors would cost $4.3 billion in revenue. Even the smaller increase would mean a deficit on the order of $7,000,000,000. Secretary Humphrey is adamant that the first Republican administration in 20 years cannot resort to deficit financing on a huge scale, and President Eisenhower agrees with him.

The proposed increases would also exempt between four and seven million people from any personal responsibility for the cost of government, which Eisenhower and Humphrey oppose on principle. Finally, it is certainly true that very heavy taxation, first on corporation profits and then on income derived from these profits, has tended to dry up the sources of risk capital. As one of the authors of the dividend credit plan remarked, "If you've got a capitalist system, you've got to have capitalists."

All in all, there are excellent reasons for the course the President has chosen, but the political risks are downright hair-raising. Perhaps the outcome will provide a test of the Nixon theory—the theory that it's good politics not to give the voters what they want if the voters know in their hearts they shouldn't have it.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — There's something dynamic happening to the American economy right now. It looks as if the business upturn has started. It may result in making 1954 one of the best business years on record.

The facts are that the latest statistics on construction are sensational in their revelation of an unprecedented building boom. They show that the combined figures for January and February are the highest in all history; America's purchasing power is being increased by more than $1 billion in only two months.

The details of the figures are to be announced within the next 48 hours by the F. W. Dodge Corporation whose nation-wide organization is relied upon by the government and by many industries for the authoritative compilation of construction permits throughout the United States—the most extensive reporting service of its kind in the world.

Represents Big Gain

It looks now as if the combined January and February figures will exceed $2,100,000,000 for construction and this is a substantial increase over 1953. Indeed, when the multiplying factor of four is used, as is customary when estimating the resultant purchasing power, the months of January and February will represent about $9 billion in purchasing power. Compared to last year this is more than a 10 per cent gain.

The F. W. Dodge figures are always based on reports from 37 states but past experience by the Department of Commerce which estimates them for the other 11 states show that the trend revealed in the 37 states usually materializes in the remainder of the states.

What this means is that lumber, steel, and other materials used in construction will be in greater demand and employment will begin to show a marked increase as permits are translated into operating contracts this year. Businesses engaged in furnishing homes and equipping plants and buildings and offices should naturally benefit, too.

Mortgage money is beginning to flow freely and projects which were delayed last year are being approved every day now with plenty of financing available from the insurance companies and other lending instrumentalities.

The significant evidence is that an expanding economy which is feeling every year the effects of an increase in population and financial sinews cannot be interrupted for long.

What the American people are doing is to spend more money for new homes. The figures for new residence construction just compiled for February are away ahead of February 1953. So also are the figures for non-residential construction which are far ahead of the same two months a year ago.

Biggest February Ever

It is indicated now that February 1954 figures will show the biggest February ever reported in the country for new construction of all kinds. Incidentally the figures for utilities and public works show a marked gain over the first two months of last year so that the advance is not merely in residential and non-residential construction. Yet the utility and public-works construction is only a small percentage of the total amount of building being done.

Many of the steel companies which are appraising the construction to be done in the next few months are already aware of what the latest statistics for January and February 1954 show and they are making plans to meet the new demands. The main impact of the new construction will come in the spring and summer months as construction goes into its stride with the improved weather. But the planning going on now and the applications for building permits in city and state government bureaus and offices transcend anything of the kind that has ever been recorded in private construction.

All this does not take into account the expansion that is coming in highway construction. When this gains the momentum expected it is likely that the entire boom will prove that the politicians in Washington had an unnecessary case of jitters. The Democrats in Congress who have been using the word "depression" so often in their speeches and a few Republicans who have grown timid and have called for tax exemptions in order to increase purchasing power will have red faces when all the facts become known about the increases in construction.

Vulnerable Industry

No one likes to be told that he is at the mercy of some force beyond his control. But a great deal of American industry is in this category.

This is the essence of a warning issued by Lt. Gen. Leslie R. Groves, wartime chief of the Manhattan Project and now himself an industrialist, who has a knack for reiterating bald facts which are so true as to be axiomatic.

He notes, for instance, that military defense and American industry are closely akin—that the former cannot exist without the efforts of the latter, and that national defense is both a military and civilian problem.

The basis of the whole problem is the American philosophy of letting the enemy hit first—a philosophy which has been expressed for world consumption on many occasions.

The knowledge that Russia has numbers of high speed, high altitude atomic bombers spotted strategically beyond the polar cap makes the air defense problem urgent. The nation is spending $5,000,000,000 a year to this end and devoting brains and manpower to the problem without stint.

But the "new look" as exemplified in a revolution in military defense planning has not been accompanied by a concerted effort to ready industry for a blow. While civil defense officials talk of dispersion, the facts are that while there has been some dispersion of industry, a great deal of it has been done to take advantage of new labor markets, new power sources, and other factors.

While a military defense pattern is now being evolved which takes into account the terrible one-for-one ratio of the H-bomb (one bomb, one city) it cannot be said that any such industrial problem is being tackled in earnest. Would such a project be so huge as to successfully defy the resourcefulness of man?

British "New Look"

United States armed forces aren't unique in undergoing a tactical and strategic evolution which will bring about a "new look," a term which has become a national byword. Britain is going through a comparable evolutionary change.

Lord Dudley, British air secretary, told Parliament in a matter of fact manner the other day that atomic bombs are being delivered to the Royal Air Force for storage, and that he anticipated no particular safety problem.

This process apparently will be similar to storage and dispersal tactics used by American units in Britain, and consists of stockpiling certain parts of atomic weapons in one place and the critical parts at another.

Meanwhile, the British army, which has been assigned the guided missile chores, is getting acquainted with the new air defense rockets which were tested successfully last year at Britain's great Woomera missile range in Australia. The new look is also reflected in the gradual shifting of emphasis within the royal navy from large capital ships to smaller attack vessels which would be most effective for infighting along the European coastline or for antisubmarine work.

Britain anticipated the new American defense philosophy when tight defense budgets and a completely new tack in strategic thinking led her to abandon the traditional "balanced force" concept and pin her hopes on increased air strength.

One need not be a deep strategist to draw the conclusion that Britain's new look and the American, operating in concert, will cause Russia, or any combination of aggressors, to pause and think before pulling a trigger.

Old Book

There seems to be substantiation for the description by Frederick B. Adams Jr., director of New York's Pierpont Morgan Library, of a work acquired by the library as the most important printed book ever brought to this country.

The work, printed in Latin about 1450 for the Roman Catholic Diocese of Constance, Germany, is believed to have been turned out by Johannes Gutenberg, inventor of printing, before his famous Gutenberg Bible. Only three copies of the Constance work are known to be in existence.

The Morgan Library acquisition, which involved payment of more than $75,000 in cash and some rare books in trade, was obtained from H. P. Kraus, antique book seller, who bought it from the Capuchin monastery at Romont, Switzerland.

Europeans believe the work was printed in or near Basel, Switzerland. All three surviving copies—not more than 100 are believed to have been printed—are bound in leather decorated with stamps known to have been used by Basel binders, and the paper bears a Basel watermark.

Existence of Constance work did not become known to printing historians until the end of the 19th Century. All investigations led to the theory it could only have been printed by Gutenberg, and obviously prior to the Gutenberg Bible, which showed much more expert craftsmanship.

Training Sole Hope

Sometimes it seems as if the entire nation is engaged in a campaign to reduce traffic deaths and injuries. If so, it is one of the most frustrating campaigns in history. Progress, where there has been progress, has been slow and discouraging.

Laws and regulations have seldom brought the desired results in educating motorists to drive more safely, and to seek security through their own efforts. Radar is now being employed on some highways in an effort to halt speeding.

Safety of child pedestrians is one of the serious traffic problems confronting the nation. Many communities have become alarmed over the increasing hazards to the lives of children.

Efforts in schools and through other agencies outside the home to make children conscious of the dangers of traffic have been beneficial, but have not solved the problem. Only parents can check the childish impulse to dash into the street, or implant firmly in their young minds that streets are dangerous at all times.

A child thus armed will develop into an adult with great respect for the automobile as a potential killer. Public schools deserve great credit for their efforts in this direction, but they cannot replace the home as a training ground.

The Small Intestine Goes To Work

Our last discussion on digestion took us thru the first part of the small intestine. This is the busiest workshop of the entire alimentary canal; it is here that secretions from the intestines, pancreas, and liver mix with the stomach contents.

Food particles are chemically altered and broken down into molecules small enough to pass thru the intestinal wall. This process of absorption is accomplished in the lower portion of the small intestine. The lining of this section of the bowel is as wrinkled as a prune.

How does the body take up the finished product? In the walls of these "wrinkles" are located millions of tiny projections (villi). These columns contain blood and lymphatic vessels which carry away the nutritive elements as soon as they pass thru the lining and distribute them to cells and tissues throughout the body for immediate use or storage, as the case may be. By this time, the steak or egg eaten for lunch has been broken down to millions of protein molecules, known as amino acids; and the potatoes and string beans have been reduced to simple sugars and starches. These molecules penetrate the walls of the capillaries and pass into the general circulation immediately. Fats take a more roundabout route thru the lymphatic system. This is a slow moving system of canals that unite with one another until they end in a duct that drains directly into the aorta, just above the heart. Ultimately, the blood carries the nutriment throughout the body.

Food remains in the small intestine three to eight hours, long enough to assure absorption of every absorbable bit. Water and roughage remain and, as the churning movements continue, they are propelled directly into the large bowel, where the final phases of digestion take place.

Irritation of the wall (enteritis) is associated with several disorders. Food or chemical poisoning, the consumption of indigestible articles, and over-eating are examples, as well as allergy, bacterial and viral invasion, and intestinal parasites. Enteritis also may accompany certain systemic diseases.

One form of enteritis, regional ileitis, is easily mistaken for appendicitis. There is pain in the right lower abdomen associated with diarrhea and fever. The sulfonamides or streptomycin help occasionally and ACTH or cortisone often have an immediate effect upon the condition; following administration of the hormone, appetite improves and diarrhea subsides. The results are not always permanent but offer a breathing spell while the body is built up to tackle its own problem. Surgery is advised when simpler measures fail to control the disease.

TOMORROW: Winter is on the wane.

DEFICIENCY DISEASE

V. C. writes: What is non-tropical sprue?

REPLY

Ordinary sprue. Two decades ago we thought this disease was due to infection and that the variety existing in the tropics differed from that found in temperate zones. We now know that sprue results from a deficiency in the diet, whether is occurs in the tropics or elsewhere.

INFLAMED COLON

S. D. writes: Is dieting the best treatment for colitis?

REPLY

A bland diet helps because it leaves little residue, which gives the bowel a rest. But diet is not the entire treatment because there are various types of colitis (spastic, bacterial, and influenzal), each requiring specific care.

WEIGHT GAIN PLAN

F. P. writes: I'm nontubercular but would like to know if the new anti-tuberculosis drugs would help me put on weight. I've had no luck with all the other methods tried.

REPLY

This plan has been used, but with questionable results. When these drugs are administered to victims of tuberculosis, the gain in weight that follows is due to a decrease in the disease process and the improved sense of well being. If they are given to a normal person, appetite may improve for psychological reasons.

NO QUARANTINE

D. F. writes: Should people with syphilis be quarantined?

REPLY

No. The contagious aspect of the disease is quickly brought under control with modern treatment. Meanwhile, the victims of active syphilis should follow the rules of good hygiene to the letter, for the protection of others.

CHOKED GLAND

W. J. S. writes: I have a wen, caused by a sebaceous gland on top of my forehead, the size of a walnut. My doctor says he can remove it. Is this the accepted treatment?

REPLY

Yes. These cysts represent oil [sebaceous] glands that have become plugged and enlarged by the accumulation of secretions. Surgical excision is the only cure.

French Refuse American Training For Indochinese Troops; McCarthy Will Make His Counsel The Scapegoat; Veep Runs For Senate Again

WASHINGTON — The headlines and Hullabaloo over McCarthy vs. Eisenhower have obscured a lot of other things happening around the world, some just as important to the free world as the battle over McCarthyism.

One is an indignant though unpublished veto by French Foreign Minister Bidault of the American suggestion that the United States train native Indochinese troops.

When the proposal was put up to the French that U. S. military men use the same training tactics they so successfully used with the Greeks and South Koreans, Bidault told the American embassy: As long as French troops and not Americans are fighting and dying in Indochina, there will be no American program.

Bidault's answer startled the Pentagon which had been planning to send General "Iron Mike" O'Daniel to Indochina. O'Daniel will still go, but with no authority to train troops.

Meanwhile, it's reported that at a secret meeting in Peiping, the Russians and Chinese promised heavy armament and troops to the Indochinese Reds. All indications are that Indochina will sooner or later go Communist.

McCarthy's Scapegoat

Senator McCarthy is looking for a new chief counsel for his investigating committee. Roy Cohn, the brash, brilliant young prosecuting attorney now holding that job, is slated for the axe.

Chief reason is that McCarthy needs a scapegoat. The heat from the White House has been too great; also from other members of the McCarthy subcommittee.

Another reason for axing Cohn is that the Army has kept a record of his telephone conversations on behalf of his friend Gerard David Scnine in which he sought favors for the young ex-McCarthy investigator.

Significantly, McCarthy is trying to find a lawyer of the Jewish faith to replace Cohn. He considers this important in order to offset the charge that he is anti-semitic.

The Veep's Comeback

One of the grand old men of American politics, Alben "The Veep" Barkley, is expected to announce this week that he will stage a comeback to Washington.

Barkley, now 76 years old, but sprier than most men of 40, has been speaking all over Kentucky and will soon announce for the Senate seat he vacated when elected vice president in 1948.

Political dopesters predict that he is certain to win. Kentucky has come to love Alben as it does bourbon and race horses; so that almost no Republican candidate could stop him, not even one as able as Senator John Sherman Cooper.

Cooper, a former governor of Kentucky and once before elected to the Senate, is one of the most popular Republicans in a state traditionally Democratic. It is said that if Cooper had been born 50 miles father west he would have been a Democrat and could stay in the Senate indefinitely. However, during the Civil War, the political line separated Kentucky's eastern mountains from the pro-South midlands, and the state has been divided politically ever since.

So it's almost certain that the familiar face of the veep will be seen once again around the Capitol.

Johnson Calls Caucus

It has been two months since Congress convened, and at long last Senator Lyndon Johnson of Texas, the so-called Democratic leader, has called a Democratic caucus.

Ordinarily a party caucus is held at the very start of a congressional session, but Johnson carefully avoided calling one until this week.

Reason for ducking usual procedure was the fear that Democratic senators opposing him would stage a rump revolt.

Meanwhile, Lyndon has been complaining privately to colleagues that his hands are tied by conservative forces back in Texas, such as oilman Hunt and the Shivercrats. If he antagonizes them he fears he'll arouse opposition for re-election.

This caused the Louisville Courier-Journal, one of the leading Democratic paper of the nation, to ask Johnson editorially and his assistant, Senator Clements of Kentucky, which was most important—the Democratic party or Texas opposition to Johnson. The main object of the Democratic leadership in the Senate, the Courner-Journal chided, seemed to be to conduct the Democratic party for the benefit of Lyndon Johnson, not for the benefit of the nation.

Legal Ethics

In the mutterings against the confusions of an era of rejection of ancient and established forms, various professions turn to a self-examination of their procedures and seek to re-establish by self-legislative ethical codes of conduct which used to be accepted as part of a way of life.

I recently partook of such fare at the Institute of Legal Ethics at the College of Law of the University of Florida at Gainesville, Fla.

The problem presented to the assembled panel was what the layman thought of the legal profession, which is not a sound question to ask because there are all sorts of lawyers and all sorts of laymen. For instance, those lawyers who are most concerned about legal ethics generally practice them behind closed doors, keeping their names and affairs out of newspapers, living happily in an obscurity of their own choosing.

They regard it as unethical for lawyers to advertise directly or indirectly and fear that the lawyer who gets his name and photograph into newspapers is really practicing an indirect form of advertising. They themselves eschew such matters as interviews and comments on great subjects and would never soil their hands by such ugly matters as murders and divorces, although crime and disruption are enormously important in our society.

A public, however, is more interested in the human side of the law. A murder is always fascinating, particularly if the murderer happens to be a woman. The people's instinct in the matter is correct because murders and similar horrors mirror the society in which we live. The duel between Alexander Hamilton and Aaron Burr is a classical example of a murder which makes everlastingly interesting reading. A kidnaping is important to the community not only in which is occurs, but everywhere in the country. Parents would resent a censorship which kept such news from them.

Such a nuptial battle as involved Bobo Rockefeller or the James Roosevelts is appealing news to most Americans who are disturbed by a marriage system which only too often is a disguished form of polygamy or polyandry, arranged by lawyers for profit and the participants for their convenience. The public likes big names on the general principle that the proletariat always finds it delightful when the upper classes slip. It may be catering to vulgar tastes to tell the truth about it, it is the participants who are the vulgarians.

The gentlemen among whom I spent this delightful evening on ethics criticized the ethics of those lawyers and even judges who use such occasions as divorces to get all the free advertising they can. A reporter knows how anxious the lawyers are for a little headline or a photograph. A good sign is when the lawyer spells out his name to make sure that it does not appear incorrectly in the public prints. Judges are malefactors in this sense and drop a well-chosen bon mot to get a laugh, in the hope that their pearls of sarcasm, if not wisdom, will find their way to posterity.

The ethical lawyers, who hide their fame beneath a self-imposed obscurity, may look down their noses at these lawyers, always forgetting that the public does not, and that while their fame may be enormous within the profession, most citizens never heard of them. Indeed, when the multiplying factor of four is used, as is customary when estimating the resultant purchasing power, the months of January and February will represent about $9 billion in purchasing power. Compared to last year this is more than a 10 per cent gain.

The F. W. Dodge figures are always based on reports from 37 states but past experience by the Department of Commerce which estimates them for the other 11 states shows that the trend revealed in the 37 states usually materializes in the remainder of the states.

What this means is that lumber, steel, and other materials used in construction will be in greater demand and employment will begin to show a marked increase as permits are translated into operating contracts this year. Businesses engaged in furnishing homes and equipping plants and buildings and offices should naturally benefit, too.

Mortgage money is beginning to flow freely and projects which were delayed last year are being approved every day now with plenty of financing available from the insurance companies and other lending instrumentalities.

The significant evidence is that an expanding economy which is feeling every year the effects of an increase in population and financial sinews cannot be interrupted for long.

What the American people are doing is to spend more money for new homes. The figures for new residence construction just compiled for February are away ahead of February 1953. So also are the figures for non-residential construction which are far ahead of the same two months a year ago.

Biggest February Ever

It is indicated now that February 1954 figures will show the biggest February ever reported in the country for new construction of all kinds. Incidentally the figures for utilities and public works show a marked gain over the first two months of last year so that the advance is not merely in residential and non-residential construction. Yet the utility and public-works construction is only a small percentage of the total amount of building being done.

Many of the steel companies which are appraising the construction to be done in the next few months are already aware of what the latest statistics for January and February 1954 show and they are making plans to meet the new demands. The main impact of the new construction will come in the spring and summer months as construction goes into its stride with the improved weather. But the planning going on now and the applications for building permits in city and state government bureaus and offices transcend anything of the kind that has ever been recorded in private construction.

All this does not take into account the expansion that is coming in highway construction. When this gains the momentum expected it is likely that the entire boom will prove that the politicians in Washington had an unnecessary case of jitters. The Democrats in Congress who have been using the word "depression" so often in their speeches and a few Republicans who have grown timid and have called for tax exemptions in order to increase purchasing power will have red faces when all the facts become known about the increases in construction.

Council Passes Routine Orders

A number of routine matters came before the Mayor and Council at yesterday's regular session.

Two "regulars" at the meetings, City Attorney Thomas B. Finan and City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum, were absent. They are in Charleston, along with Ridgeley officials, to confer with the West Virginia State Road Commission concerning relocation of Route 28 during future flood control work in the nearby town.

Council authorized refunds for two overpayments of real estate taxes as follows: First Federal Savings and Loan Company $26.15 on property of Gladys B. Darr, 342 Davidson Street; Samuel Jacobson $68, for 59 Pershing Street.

Dr. Winter R. Fr itz city and county health officer, said in his monthly report the department recorded 19 communicable diseases, 127 births and 7? deaths.

Meter collections for the week February 21-28 increased $21.78, Inspector Harry Whisner said.

Finance Commissioner William V. Keegan, in a report on receipts and disbursements, listed the following March 1 balances: General, $501,52.86; water operative, $152,-201.33; general improvement bonds, $64,565.14; and sewer bonds of 1931, $9,184.97.

Council agreed to give to the Red Cross its proportionate share of funds provided for that purpose. The local chapter had asked a contribution last week for its annual fund campaign.

Council tabled for one week a report by Nuzum recommending that the tabulation of the Robert W. Hunt Company, of Pittsburgh, on prices of materials needed for the Valley Street bridge be accepted with certain exceptions. Nuzum said he concurred with the bridge designer, J. E. Referred to Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long, with power to act, was the request of W. W. Gurley, 123 South Liberty Street, to hang a "parking banner" across the street for 30 days.

Funeral Director's Will Is Probated

The will of David S. Boal of Barton, a funeral director for 50 years until his death January 30, was admitted to probate Friday in Allegany County Orphans Court.

Boal drew his will almost 30 years ago, on November 7, 1924. His widow, Mrs. Eliza Boal, was named executrix and sole beneficiary.

Also admitted to probate Friday was the will of Vonder Smith Fleegle, 60-year-old Corriganville man, who died February 27. A son, Leo Fleegle, also of Corriganville, was designated executor. That son also was left real estate and personal property in his home on Mt. Savage Road. All the rest of the estate will be divided equally among five children, Vincent Fleegle, this city; Leo, Allen Fleegle, Baltimore; Mrs. Kathleen DePew, Corriganville, and Mrs. Helen Morgan, Baltimore. The will was dated October 16, 1953.

Four February Fires Reported

Only four February forest fires occurred in this four-county Western Maryland district and they burned only 10 acres, according to District Forester William H. Johnson. Two each were in Frederick and Washington counties.

The forester also noted that with the arrival of March the annual spring controlled burning season started. Of course, he noted, there has been an unseasonal volume of rain and some snow periodically last week. These regulations are not in effect when there is snow on the ground.

High winds that have been blowing tend to dry out grass and leaves and could whip fires along once they started. They probably would not burn deep because of the damp condition of the ground, the forester observed.

During the months of March, April and May controlled burning within 200 feet of woodland or inflammable material that could ignite and carry fire to woodland outside the limits of incorporated towns is prohibited before 4 p. m. EST.

Unless there is a natural firebreak of at least 10 feet in width surrounding the area to be burned which is free of inflammable material it is necessary to plow or otherwise construct a fireline at least 10 feet wide around the area to be burned, provide sufficient help to prevent the fire from escaping and have at least one watchman on the ground until the last spark is out. Burning under these safeguards is permissible only between 4 p. m. and midnight EST.

Driver Forfeits Bond On Reckless Charge

Richard S. Hager, 326 Davidson Street, who was charged with reckless driving following a collision last Wednesday on Greene Street, forfeited $16.45 bond when he failed to appear for a hearing Saturday in Trial Magistrates Court.

Hager's car collided with a vehicle operated by J. H. Ault, 523 Woodside Avenue, resulting in about $1,000 property damage and a traffic tieup which required three policemen to untangle.

First prize will be $100 for the finest painting, $50 second prize and $25 in merchandise for third. An additional prize of $25 in merchandise will be presented for the best work by a contributor who is receiving specialized training in the arts, or who is a student in an art class or school.

Ban On Water Use Still In Effect Here

Water levels jumped during the past week in Cumberland's water supply lakes but not enough to allow easing of restrictions on non-essential uses.

Water Commissioner William J. Edwards said yesterday morning that the water level in Lake Koon, which last week was 38 feet below the crest, had climbed to 18 feet below, a gain of 20. Lake Gordon was seven feet nine inches below the crest Sunday.

Cooperation in the conservation program is shown in figures which reveal the last week consumed 87,-630,000 gallons, or about 2,280,000 under the same period a year ago.

Edwards praised efforts of citizens, industry and service stations in reducing the use of water. The saving resulting from the curtailment on car washing and cooperation by service stations has been considerable.

Edwards said if the city receives a sizeable rainfall this week, the result may be an easing of the bans.

Officers were elected by the Barrelville Outdoor Club Sunday.

George A. Emerson has been promoted to the post of assistant plant superintendent at the Cumberland River Plant, according to an announcement made by the Potomac Edison Company here yesterday.

Emerson, who resides in LaVale, joined the Potomac Edison Company in 1931 when he was employed at the R. Paul Smith Plant in Williamsport, Md. He served at the utility company's station there until 1937 when he was transferred to the then new installation at the Celanese plant here.

He later was assigned to the Cumberland River Plant and in the capacity of operator and watch engineer. He served in the latter capacity at the time of his promotion.

In his new assignment, Emerson will assist the Plant Superintendent A. G. Wallis with the supervision of the operation and maintenance of the Cumberland River Plant, the Union Street Steam Plant and the turbo generator located at the Celanese plant.

Police Are Probing Breaking, Entering

City Police are investigating the breaking and entering of a North Centre Street tavern early Sunday morning during which the proprietor reports $10.52 stolen from a cash register.

Mary Betz, 143 North Centre Street, proprietor of Mary's Tavern at the same address, told authorities she discovered the entry at approximately 8 a. m. Sunday, and said the business place had been entered some time between then and 1 a. m., when the tavern closed.

Detective Leo E. P. Law, who is investigating, said entry was made by breaking a pane of glass in a rear window and then raising the window. Evidence indicates the intruder was a small person.

Allegheny Airlines Marks Anniversary

Allegheny Airlines completed its fifth year of scheduled passenger, mail and express services in the Middle Atlantic area Sunday.

During the last five years, Allegheny has flown 869,492 passengers, over 125,000,000 passenger miles and has maintained a perfect safety record. More than 270,000 ton miles of air mail and 590,000 ton miles of air express were carried during the five-year period.

In the first 12 months of Allegheny's passenger operations beginning March 1949, the company carried 86,000 passengers. During the last year, 221,000 passengers boarded Allegheny flights; serving over 50 communities in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, Maryland, New Jersey and Delaware.

In commenting on the anniversary, Leslie O. Barnes, president of the airline, stated, "The growth of Allegheny during the last five years is a testimonial to the cooperative efforts of the communities served and the employees of the company. On the basis of current trends," he said, "Allegheny will achieve an even greater record during the next five years."

Although Allegheny's passenger services were inaugurated in 1949, the company has been a scheduled air carrier in the Middle Atlantic area since 1939. During the first ten years of the company's operations, Allegheny carried only air mail and air express.

All school children in Australia are provided with free milk daily.

Attorney Denies Sneaking Airplane Parts Into Poland

BALTIMORE, March 8 (AP)—The government today presented an array of documents by which it seeks to prove Henry Lloyd Knight, Washington attorney and businessman, sneaked airplane parts through the Iron Curtain into Poland.

Knight denied it as he went on trial in Federal Court today on a charge of conspiracy to violate the U. S. Neutrality Law. He is originally from Eureka Spring, Ark.

"He was a victim of people who double-crossed him," Hilary W. Gans, Knight's attorney, told the jury of five housewives and seven men.

Knight knew nothing about the spare parts for transport planes going to Poland, Gans declared. The "rascal" who engineered that, Gans said, was one Philippe Louis Marie Charles de Bourbon, for a time Knight's sales agent in Paris and more recently of Montevideo, Uruguay.

"De Bourbon turned out to be a traitor to himself, to Air Union, Inc., to Knight and his country," Gans argued.

Knight and Air Union, the firm he set up in Washington and Bethesda, Md., to do a $1,500,000 business in surplus war supplies, were indicted in November of 1952 for shipping $48,000 worth of plane parts to Poland in the latter half of 1949.

The government contends he did this through a "dummy" firm in Paris, SOFADEX.

Prosecutors told the jury they would see a hand-written note by which Knight instructed De Bourbon to set up the arrangement.

The defense said Knight never wrote such a note.

It was not until after he was indicted, the defense said, that Knight found out on a trip to Paris that De Bourbon had been dealing with LOT, the nationalized Polish airline, as well as illegally with Egypt and Israel.

De Bourbon is scheduled to be the main government witness in a day or two. The case is expected to run ten days or two weeks.

Law Advocated To Pay Persons Freed Of Crime

BALTIMORE, March 8 (AP) — A Baltimore lawyer believes the state should reimburse persons who lose money by being charged with a crime and then found innocent.

The attorney general of Maryland disagrees.

So Milton R. Rothstein, the lawyer, said today he will try to prevail upon the Legislative Council to recommend it as a law.

Rothstein had written Gov. McKeldin urging that the state reimburse a client acquitted of a murder charge for wages he lost while awaiting trial.

The governor asked Edward D. E. Rollins, the attorney general, for an opinion.

"While I deplore the loss which your client suffered as a result of his indictment," Rollins wrote Rothstein, "I do not believe that the state should undertake to reimburse persons for losses flowing from criminal prosecutions which terminate in acquittals.

"I believe that sound public policy requires that the state adhere to the position which it has maintained from time immemorial; namely, to be immune from responsibility for financial losses which result to a man acquitted of the crime with which he is charged."

Rothstein replied that the policy is "antiquated and out of step with the modern concept of justice to the individual" and that he will take it up with the Legislative Council.

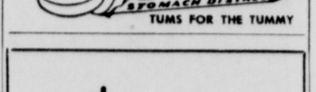

Caroline Co. School Merger Considered

DENTON, Md., March 8 (AP)—For the second time in five years, Caroline County school officials are investigating the cost of a proposed consolidated high school.

W. Stewart Fitzgerald, county school superintendent, began the survey at the request of the Council of Parent-Teacher Associations after suggestions that a consolidated school would be less expensive and more efficient than the county's five high schools.

Spaniards, who learned the Egyptian art of making mud bricks from the ancient Moors, brought it to America, where it is still used for building structures in the southwestern part of the United States.

Marbury Files For Court Post

ANNAPOLIS, March 8 (AP)—Circuit Judge Charles C. Marbury of Prince Georges County today set up what will be the first election contest for a seat on Maryland's Court of Appeals since it was reorganized in 1944.

Marbury filed his candidacy for the Second Appelate Circuit seat now is held by Judge Hall Hammond, who was appointed to the post in 1952 to fill the seat vacated by former Judge Ogle Marbury, a cousin of Hammond's opponent.

Former Judge Charles Markell of Baltimore was the only member of the five-member panel ever selected by the voters and he was unopposed on the ballot.

Marbury, of Upper Marlboro, has presided over the busy Prince Georges County court since his appointment in 1941, after 11 years as a member of the House of Delegates and the state Senate.

Hammond was attorney general during the term of former Gov. William Preston Lane.

Another appeals court seat will be filled Thursday when Baltimore attorney Frederick W. Brune is sworn in as chief judge to replace Simon E. Sobeloff, now U. S. solicitor general.

Brune will not have to face the voters this year since the constitution says a judge must serve one year before facing re-election.

Ted Williams Will Undergo Surgery Today

Slugger's Collarbone To Be Wired Together

BOSTON, March 8 (AP) — Injured Ted Williams may return to baseball sooner than expected.

Surgeons will open the Boston Red Sox slugger's left shoulder tomorrow and wire together his broken collarbone.

The medicos envisioned his return to playing status "in the vicinity of eight weeks."

The decision tooperate was made today after a team of three physicians examined new x-ray film.

They ordered the 35-year-old Red Sox star into Sancta Maria Hospital in Cambridge and scheduled his operation for "mid-morning."

The X-rays disclosed "marked displacement of small sections of the broken bone." The doctors also reported the pictures showed two small bits of bone, "communited fragments," had been "displaced away from the shaft alignment."

In laymen's language, Dr. Russell Sullivan explained, two small pieces "had been broken off, or chipped." He added these chips probably would "be left in there" to grow back with the rest of the collarbone.

Dr. Sullivan and his associates, Drs. Otto Herman and Albert M. Maloney, also said in a statement that by "open operation with internal fixation by means of a pin or wire. . . healing should be more rapid."

Williams suffered the injury a week ago today, 10 minutes after trotting onto the Sox training field at Sarasota, Fla. He tumbled while reaching for a low hit ball and landed on his shoulder.

Ted Williams Will Undergo Surgery Today

Slugger's Collarbone To Be Wired Together

BOSTON, March 8 (AP) — Injured Ted Williams may return to baseball sooner than expected.

Surgeons will open the Boston Red Sox slugger's left shoulder tomorrow and wire together his broken collarbone.

The medicos envisioned his return to playing status "in the vicinity of eight weeks."

The decision tooperate was made today after a team of three physicians examined new x-ray film.

They ordered the 35-year-old Red Sox star into Sancta Maria Hospital in Cambridge and scheduled his operation for "mid-morning."

The X-rays disclosed "marked displacement of small sections of the broken bone." The doctors also reported the pictures showed two small bits of bone, "communited fragments," had been "displaced away from the shaft alignment."

In laymen's language, Dr. Russell Sullivan explained, two small pieces "had been broken off, or chipped." He added these chips probably would "be left in there" to grow back with the rest of the collarbone.

Dr. Sullivan and his associates, Drs. Otto Herman and Albert M. Maloney, also said in a statement that by "open operation with internal fixation by means of a pin or wire. . . healing should be more rapid."

Williams suffered the injury a week ago today, 10 minutes after trotting onto the Sox training field at Sarasota, Fla. He tumbled while reaching for a low hit ball and landed on his shoulder.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

I ELSOFLAIS ITS'O I AIS—FLIDO.
BICD SUO I NUAAUS AIS—DRIB.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: WE SAID ON THAT FIRST DAY, WE SAID AND SWORE THAT SELF SHOULD BE NO MORE—SHANKS.

All-weather spring coats can be dressy, classic or sporty; yet they make perfect rain chasers!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

People will think they are seeing a rainbow the next time you walk down the street if you wear one of the new water-repellent all-weather spring coats.

Fashion has come up with the perfect spring cover — a happy combination of attractive fabrics and superb styling. They are rain chasers both in fact and fancy. Even the fabrics look like those of high fashion coats and the silhouettes, detailing and tailoring definitely make them wearable for all occasions.

The "Party" Look

Are you hankering for a dressy coat? You'll be as glamorous as you please in a moire faille with dropped shoulder seams, the new swelling sleeves and a stand-away-from-the figure look. The one I saw was in navy with a pastel striped satin lining ad decidedly had the "party" look.

Corduroy and velveteens in eye-stopping iridescent colors, some even trimmed with embroidery, can be most flattering go-everywhere-anytime coats that never suggest their rainproof secret. For sheer swank it's hard to beat the swishy taffetas in a full style or a pure silk shantung with semi-fitted cut. I have even seen a gold brocade version.

In casual styles your choice can be made from simulated wools, poplins, worsted, tweeds, gabardines, twills and linens in plain colors, plaids, prints, checks and novelty weaves.

Making big news this season are the new plastics, the likes of which never have been seen before. The clear plastic is laminated over material. These are shown in jungle and fur prints, tweeds, plaids, florals and also milk white solids and opaque pastels.

The most unusual rainwear found in this material is a flaring hip-length topper in leopard print with a wraparound, solid-color skirt to be fastened right over your dress or skirt. A very new idea and practical as well. Matching hats, tote-bags or slipon cases are also to be had with this and some of the other types.

Range Of Styles

Styles range from slim and boxy coats, some with detachable capelets, others with cardigan necklines and scarves to tuxedo and princess lines. A softened, feminine version of the trench coat is a special favorite.

Now's the time when you are sure to be caught in a shower, but you needn't be caught unprepared or looking dismal!

TEN SECRETS OF CHARM

You are welcome, free of charge, to the reminder card, TEN SECRETS OF CHARM. It lists ten points to remember as milestones along the road to greater charm. Carry it with you and you won't overlook any of the ways you impress all who come incontact with you. All-Out Fight Is Planned Against Gas Rate Increase

A citizens' committee presented a petition of 3,500 names to the Mayor and Council yesterday, and said more are to be submitted later in an "all-out fight" protesting a proposed increase in rates by the C&P Gas Company.

The committee wants petitions forwarded to the Public Service Commission before which a hearing will start Wednesday on the gas firm's application.

Albert L. Deen, executive secretary of the PSC said in Baltimore yesterday that the commission expected the gas company to present its case in hearings opening Wednesday at 10 a. m. there. The gas firm's presentation may run into a second day, he added.

Dean said the commission, at the conclusion of this session, would probably try to fix a time for further proceedings which could include cross-examination of gas firm witnesses or presentation by the Peoples Counsel for the state of the case for complaints against the increase.

Dean said the commission would not refuse to hear any one who has a protest ready at this time.

Asked if he had received individual complaints about the increase, Deen replied "some," but added that the number is not heavy.

Both City Attorney Thomas B. Finan and County Attorney Gorman E. Getty are preparing a case for the PSC after both governing bodies had protested. Finan is to give a report to council next Monday, Mayor Roy W. Eves said.

Speaking for the citizens' group today was Mrs. J. W. Whittington, 205 Roberts Street, who said the petition represents a "demand for justice by the people as a whole." She added, an example of the feeling behind the move came from the fact that residents were not only willing to sign but offered money to help fight the increase.

Entitled To Fair Boost

She said she believed every company entitled to fair profits and that users liked natural gas as a heating fuel, but not at an exhorbitant rate.

Mrs. Whittington added that the citizens' committee feels the rate increase will work a hardship which will eventually force a conversion to less expensive heating methods. She said she also spoke for many unemployed, including those who have made their home here many years, have lost their jobs and found themselves unable to find work because they are middle-aged. This group opposes any cost of living increase, Mrs. Whittington said, adding that they would like to see increases halted until they feel more secure and know where the extra dollars are coming from.

"All-Out Fight"

The committee, she continued, is calling on the city and county to help with "this all-out fight" and thanked council, Finan and Eves for their help.

Another protest was filed by letter by Mr. and Mrs. William H. Gatehouse, 212 Fulton Street.

The committee has pointed out in other appearances that the gas company got a 22 per cent increase last year and is asked another of about 16 per cent.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, March 8 (INS) — Such excitement on the Paramount lot over Vistavision, the new wide screen medium. Don Hartman, who says it was Y. Frank Freeman who had the foresight to wait for this invention, tells me that James Cagney has just been signed for the first out-door western, "Run for Cover," to be made in the new medium.

"Run for Cover" will be Paramount's third vistavision, "White Christmas" and "Big Top" precede it. And speaking of "White Christmas," Vera-Ellen's dances in this are so wonderfully amplified and she herself told me that she has never been as pleased in her life as when she saw some of her scenes.

As sure as death and taxes is Dore Schary's decision to make another picture patterned on the lines of "Executive Suit," which I must say is a great picture.

"Executive Suite" deals with big business in a dramatic way. Now, labor is the next subject to be tackled, and John Houseman has been penciled in to produce. The story is now being written by James Bartlow Martin, whose articles on labor won him a Pulitzer prize.

The star of this epic will be a young American labor leader. William Holden would be perfect.

George Murphy writes to say he is still in Philadelphia undergoing treatment, and that although his operation lasted only three minutes, his doctor insists he stay on for X-ray treatment as a precautionary measure.

Says George, "I'll be home soon, with everything except my singer's node, so I'll just be a talker."

"Vice President Nixon called to wish me well," says George, "Irving Berlin said it with, 'There's no business like show business'."

Chatter in Hollywood:

The Jack Webb-Dorothy Towne romance is yesterday's news. I saw Jack and Richard Breen dining at Chasen's with two very pretty girls. The girl who Jack escorted was very brunette, Dorothy is londe.

Wednesday, Dorothy had dinner with Leo Tavish, well-known restaurauteur, at Dominick's restaurant, a small place in Beverly Hills.

To further augment this rumor, Mr. Dragnet is selling the house he bought from Stanley Kramer, which was supposed to be the honeymoon home after he married the attractive Dorothy.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Gary Cooper's interest in Lorraine Chanel is still the subject of comment in Mexico City. They lunched at the Hotel Balmer, and have been together every evening since Gary went south of the border.

Now it's Cesare Sieppi who is being sought for an important role in 'Marco Polo" by Leo McCarey.

Jane Powell makes no secret of the fact that she's in love with Pat Nerney, and as far as she's concerned their romance could develop into marriage.

Van Johnson, who has been in Paris for scenes for "The Last Time I Saw Paris" ("Babylon Revisited"), will be joined by Evie in another week.

Miguel Aleman, Jr., son of the former president of Mexico, has been in town for a few days.

Gabby Hayes and his wife celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary at the Tennis Club in Palm Springs, and with them were William (Hopalong Cassidy) Boyd and his Grace.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

I ELSOFLAIS ITS'O I AIS—FLIDO.
BICD SUO I NUAAUS AIS—DRIB.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: WE SAID ON THAT FIRST DAY, WE SAID AND SWORE THAT SELF SHOULD BE NO MORE—SHANKS.

All-weather spring coats can be dressy, classic or sporty; yet they make perfect rain chasers!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

People will think they are seeing a rainbow the next time you walk down the street if you wear one of the new water-repellent all-weather spring coats.

Fashion has come up with the perfect spring cover — a happy combination of attractive fabrics and superb styling. They are rain chasers both in fact and fancy. Even the fabrics look like those of high fashion coats and the silhouettes, detailing and tailoring definitely make them wearable for all occasions.

The "Party" Look

Are you hankering for a dressy coat? You'll be as glamorous as you please in a moire faille with dropped shoulder seams, the new swelling sleeves and a stand-away-from-the figure look. The one I saw was in navy with a pastel striped satin lining ad decidedly had the "party" look.

Corduroy and velveteens in eye-stopping iridescent colors, some even trimmed with embroidery, can be most flattering go-everywhere-anytime coats that never suggest their rainproof secret. For sheer swank it's hard to beat the swishy taffetas in a full style or a pure silk shantung with semi-fitted cut. I have even seen a gold brocade version.

In casual styles your choice can be made from simulated wools, poplins, worsted, tweeds, gabardines, twills and linens in plain colors, plaids, prints, checks and novelty weaves.

Making big news this season are the new plastics, the likes of which never have been seen before. The clear plastic is laminated over material. These are shown in jungle and fur prints, tweeds, plaids, florals and also milk white solids and opaque pastels.

The most unusual rainwear found in this material is a flaring hip-length topper in leopard print with a wraparound, solid-color skirt to be fastened right over your dress or skirt. A very new idea and practical as well. Matching hats, tote-bags or slipon cases are also to be had with this and some of the other types.

Range Of Styles

Styles range from slim and boxy coats, some with detachable capelets, others with cardigan necklines and scarves to tuxedo and princess lines. A softened, feminine version of the trench coat is a special favorite.

Now's the time when you are sure to be caught in a shower, but you needn't be caught unprepared or looking dismal!

All-Out Fight Is Planned Against Gas Rate Increase

A citizens' committee presented a petition of 3,500 names to the Mayor and Council yesterday, and said more are to be submitted later in an "all-out fight" protesting a proposed increase in rates by the C&P Gas Company.

The committee wants petitions forwarded to the Public Service Commission before which a hearing will start Wednesday on the gas firm's application.

Albert L. Deen, executive secretary of the PSC said in Baltimore yesterday that the commission expected the gas company to present its case in hearings opening Wednesday at 10 a. m. there. The gas firm's presentation may run into a second day, he added.

Dean said the commission, at the conclusion of this session, would probably try to fix a time for further proceedings which could include cross-examination of gas firm witnesses or presentation by the Peoples Counsel for the state of the case for complaints against the increase.

Dean said the commission would not refuse to hear any one who has a protest ready at this time.

Asked if he had received individual complaints about the increase, Deen replied "some," but added that the number is not heavy.

Both City Attorney Thomas B. Finan and County Attorney Gorman E. Getty are preparing a case for the PSC after both governing bodies had protested. Finan is to give a report to council next Monday, Mayor Roy W. Eves said.

Speaking for the citizens' group today was Mrs. J. W. Whittington, 205 Roberts Street, who said the petition represents a "demand for justice by the people as a whole." She added, an example of the feeling behind the move came from the fact that residents were not only willing to sign but offered money to help fight the increase.

Entitled To Fair Boost

She said she believed every company entitled to fair profits and that users liked natural gas as a heating fuel, but not at an exhorbitant rate.

Mrs. Whittington added that the citizens' committee feels the rate increase will work a hardship which will eventually force a conversion to less expensive heating methods. She said she also spoke for many unemployed, including those who have made their home here many years, have lost their jobs and found themselves unable to find work because they are middle-aged. This group opposes any cost of living increase, Mrs. Whittington said, adding that they would like to see increases halted until they feel more secure and know where the extra dollars are coming from.

"All-Out Fight"

The committee, she continued, is calling on the city and county to help with "this all-out fight" and thanked council, Finan and Eves for their help.

Another protest was filed by letter by Mr. and Mrs. William H. Gatehouse, 212 Fulton Street.

The committee has pointed out in other appearances that the gas company got a 22 per cent increase last year and is asked another of about 16 per cent.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, March 8 (INS) — Such excitement on the Paramount lot over Vistavision, the new wide screen medium. Don Hartman, who says it was Y. Frank Freeman who had the foresight to wait for this invention, tells me that James Cagney has just been signed for the first out-door western, "Run for Cover," to be made in the new medium.

"Run for Cover" will be Paramount's third vistavision, "White Christmas" and "Big Top" precede it. And speaking of "White Christmas," Vera-Ellen's dances in this are so wonderfully amplified and she herself told me that she has never been as pleased in her life as when she saw some of her scenes.

As sure as death and taxes is Dore Schary's decision to make another picture patterned on the lines of "Executive Suite," which I must say is a great picture.

"Executive Suite" deals with big business in a dramatic way. Now, labor is the next subject to be tackled, and John Houseman has been penciled in to produce. The story is now being written by James Bartlow Martin, whose articles on labor won him a Pulitzer prize.

The star of this epic will be a young American labor leader. William Holden would be perfect.

George Murphy writes to say he is still in Philadelphia undergoing treatment, and that although his operation lasted only three minutes, his doctor insists he stay on for X-ray treatment as a precautionary measure.

Says George, "I'll be home soon, with everything except my singer's node, so I'll just be a talker."

"Vice President Nixon called to wish me well," says George, "Irving Berlin said it with, 'There's no business like show business'."

Chatter in Hollywood:

The Jack Webb-Dorothy Towne romance is yesterday's news. I saw Jack and Richard Breen dining at Chasen's with two very pretty girls. The girl who Jack escorted was very brunette, Dorothy is blonde.

Wednesday, Dorothy had dinner with Leo Tavish, well-known restaurauteur, at Dominick's restaurant, a small place in Beverly Hills.

To further augment this rumor, Mr. Dragnet is selling the house he bought from Stanley Kramer, which was supposed to be the honeymoon home after he married the attractive Dorothy.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Gary Cooper's interest in Lorraine Chanel is still the subject of comment in Mexico City. They lunched at the Hotel Balmer, and have been together every evening since Gary went south of the border.

Now it's Cesare Sieppi who is being sought for an important role in 'Marco Polo" by Leo McCarey.

Jane Powell makes no secret of the fact that she's in love with Pat Nerney, and as far as she's concerned their romance could develop into marriage.

Van Johnson, who has been in Paris for scenes for "The Last Time I Saw Paris" ("Babylon Revisited"), will be joined by Evie in another week.

Miguel Aleman, Jr., son of the former president of Mexico, has been in town for a few days.

Gabby Hayes and his wife celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary at the Tennis Club in Palm Springs, and with them were William (Hopalong Cassidy) Boyd and his Grace.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Small A-Plants May Power Arctic Bases

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP) — American air bases in the remote arctic, such as Alaska or Greenland, may be equipped with air transported "package" atomic power plants to provide electricity without relying on fuel oil or coal.

The Atomic Energy Commission announced last night that, at the request of the Defense Department, it is canvassing private firms to see what ones would be willing and able to build an experimental version of such a small, nuclear power plant. Companies have been asked to participate under a fixed price arrangement, submitting offers by March 20.

Daily Bridge Lesson — by Barclay

RUFFED ACE NO HARMER

WE ARE all prone to feeling badly if we see our partner hold up his ace on a particular trick and then have the declarer trump it on the next. But, before voicing our displeasure at the action of the earnest fellow opposite us, it is well to pause and weigh the result of his action. Maybe the loss of his top card didn't cost a thing, as the declarer could have gained the same over-all result if it had been used on the first trick of the suit.

	♠ 10 5 ♥ K Q 5 4 3 ♦ 8 ♣ A K Q 8 5
♠ K 8 2 ♥ J 8 7 ♦ 10 6 5 2 ♣ 9 7 6	N W E S	♠ J 9 6 4 3 ♥ 9 ♦ A J ♣ J 10 4 3 2
	♠ A Q 7 ♥ A 10 6 2 ♦ K Q 9 7 4 3 ♣ None

(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
1 ♥	Pass	3 ♥	Pass
4 NT	Pass	5 ♥	Pass

Early play of this deal went about the same at nearly all tables where that contract was reached. East led the spade 4, the A being played and then the heart K, A and Q followed by three club toppers which showed the length held by East, as two spades and a diamond were discarded from dummy. Then came the diamond 8 lead. At one table, East refused to set up both the K and Q, which he could see in dummy, playing the J, enabling the Q to win.

The very next trick then was the diamond 4 ruffed by North, which killed East's A. West felt terrible about that and did some hemming and hawing. The club 5 was ruffed next and the diamond K gave North a discard of his last spade. There was no way, though, for him to get rid of his last club. So, after ruffing a diamond to be back in, he had to give up the club 8 to the J to barely make his small slam.

Brief post-morteming disclosed that, where East used the A on the first diamond trick, he scored with it, but later took no club trick as the diamond K and Q enabled North to get two timely discards to prevent any more losers. So the ruffing of East's ace did no harm to his side.

Inept play by one declarer caused him to be beaten in a hurry. He put in the spade Q on the opening lead, letting West win with the K and return a diamond to the A. He pleaded that East was a tricky player, who might have been leading from the K. But such a piece of luck was not required, when other plays were in view to make the contract.

How should South play for his 6-Spades after the heart J lead?

"Now remember—I don't want them too small, but I don't want them large enough either."

Scientists believe that an ancient religious cult made up of medicine men and slaves left the strange markings found on many stones in southeastern Alaska.

Daily Bridge Lesson — by Barclay

RUFFED ACE NO HARMER

WE ARE all prone to feeling badly if we see our partner hold up his ace on a particular trick and then have the declarer trump it on the next. But, before voicing our displeasure at the action of the earnest fellow opposite us, it is well to pause and weigh the result of his action. Maybe the loss of his top card didn't cost a thing, as the declarer could have gained the same over-all result if it had been used on the first trick of the suit.

	♠ 10 5 ♥ K Q 5 4 3 ♦ 8 ♣ A K Q 8 5
♠ K 8 2 ♥ J 8 7 ♦ 10 6 5 2 ♣ 9 7 6	N W E S	♠ J 9 6 4 3 ♥ 9 ♦ A J ♣ J 10 4 3 2
	♠ A Q 7 ♥ A 10 6 2 ♦ K Q 9 7 4 3 ♣ None

(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
1 ♥	Pass	3 ♥	Pass
4 NT	Pass	5 ♥	Pass

Early play of this deal went about the same at nearly all tables where that contract was reached. East led the spade 4, the A being played and then the heart K, A and Q followed by three club toppers which showed the length held by East, as two spades and a diamond were discarded from dummy. Then came the diamond 8 lead. At one table, East refused to set up both the K and Q, which he could see in dummy, playing the J, enabling the Q to win.

The very next trick then was the diamond 4 ruffed by North, which killed East's A. West felt terrible about that and did some hemming and hawing. The club 5 was ruffed next and the diamond K gave North a discard of his last spade. There was no way, though, for him to get rid of his last club. So, after ruffing a diamond to be back in, he had to give up the club 8 to the J to barely make his small slam.

Brief post-mortemimg disclosed that, where East used the A on the first diamond trick, he scored with it, but later took no club trick as the diamond K and Q enabled North to get two timely discards to prevent any more losers. So the ruffing of East's ace did no harm to his side.

Inept play by one declarer caused him to be beaten in a hurry. He put in the spade Q on the opening lead, letting West win with the K and return a diamond to the A. He pleaded that East was a tricky player, who might have been leading from the K. But such a piece of luck was not required, when other plays were in view to make the contract.

How should South play for his 6-Spades after the heart J lead?

In memory of my husband, Paul Edward Spaur, who died March 9, 1952.
We walked together, you and I,
In sorrow and in joy;
We shared our pains and happiness

And death shall never end our love,
For through the mist I see
Our glad reunion in the skies
For all eternity.

Card of Thanks

We take this means of publicly expressing sincere thanks to those of our friends and neighbors who were so sympathetic and helpful during the illness and following the death of our beloved son, Walter Thomas Brown. We are grateful for the use of motor cars for the funeral, to those who sent floral tributes and to all others who in any manner rendered assistance.
The Brown Family.

In Memoriam

In memory of our husband and father, who passed away 2 years ago, March 9, 1952.
Beautiful memories are all that is left.
Of the one we loved and shall never forget.
SADIE HERBAUGH and CHILDREN

In memory of my husband, Paul Edward Spaur, who died March 9, 1952.
We walked together, you and I,
In sorrow and in joy;
We shared our pains and happiness
With love without alloy.
And death shall never end our love,
For through the mist I see
Our glad reunion in the skies
For all eternity.
Betty Lou Spaur.

Boost In West German Exports Recommended

FRANKFURT, Germany, March 8 — Federal Economics Minister Ludwig Erhard called yesterday for a further increase in West German exports, already at a record level.

Erhard said that although the Bonn republic was the biggest creditor in the European Payments Union, he would never approve measures curbing sales abroad. Instead, he said, this should be balanced by increased imports following bigger domestic consumption.

Erhard spoke at the opening ceremonies of Frankfurt's international spring fair.

At the height of Athens' power as a city-state, its population was between 300,000 and 350,000.

Prices Recede In Market With Profit-Taking Factor

NEW YORK, March 8 (AP)—Prices receded in the Stock Market today from the near-record high of last week.

Profit-taking was described as a factor in the fall which never at any time exceeded the bounds of moderation.

Railroads were handicapped by a report showing January net income of 130 class one railroads down sharply from the previous year. As a group the railroads closed lower.

Going down with the rails were many chemicals, steels, rubbers, farm implements, aircrafts, and distillers. In Washington a bill affording tax relief to distillers was blocked.

Utilities were higher as were the golds. Motors and radio-television issues held steady.

Losses went to between 1 and 2 points while gains exceeded a fractional range only occasionally.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined 40 cents at $115.-80. On Friday the average was only 10 cents away from a 24-year high. Both the industrial and railroad components of the average today lost 50 cents while utilities gained 10 cents.

Low volume also took the edge off the fall. Business amounted to only 1,650,000 shares. That compares with 2,030,000 shares traded Friday when the market was threatening to break through to a new high mark.

Boost In West German Exports Recommended

FRANKFURT, Germany, March 8 — Federal Economics Minister Ludwig Erhard called yesterday for a further increase in West German exports, already at a record level.

Erhard said that although the Bonn republic was the biggest creditor in the European Payments Union, he would never approve measures curbing sales abroad. Instead, he said, this should be balanced by increased imports following bigger domestic consumption.

Erhard spoke at the opening ceremonies of Frankfurt's international spring fair.

At the height of Athens' power as a city-state, its population was between 300,000 and 350,000.

Prices Recede In Market With Profit-Taking Factor

NEW YORK, March 8 (AP)—Prices receded in the Stock Market today from the near-record high of last week.

Profit-taking was described as a factor in the fall which never at any time exceeded the bounds of moderation.

Railroads were handicapped by a report showing January net income of 130 class one railroads down sharply from the previous year. As a group the railroads closed lower.

Going down with the rails were many chemicals, steels, rubbers, farm implements, aircrafts, and distillers. In Washington a bill affording tax relief to distillers was blocked.

Utilities were higher as were the golds. Motors and radio-television issues held steady.

Losses went to between 1 and 2 points while gains exceeded a fractional range only occasionally.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined 40 cents at $115.-80. On Friday the average was only 10 cents away from a 24-year high. Both the industrial and railroad components of the average today lost 50 cents while utilities gained 10 cents.

Low volume also took the edge off the fall. Business amounted to only 1,650,000 shares. That compares with 2,030,000 shares traded Friday when the market was threatening to break through to a new high mark.

Five Youths Held After Frostburg Burglary Series

Four Will Face April Grand Jury

Four Frostburg youths will face Grand Jury action in April in connection with a series of nine breaking and enterings in that community recently, and a 13-year-old Mt. Savage lad who took part in the minor crime wave will receive a hearing in Juvenile Court here this week.

Officials said a preliminary hearing probably will be held today for the purpose of setting bond for the four youths who are to be bound over for action of the Grand Jury.

The youths being held in the Allegany County Jail, were identified as Eugene Jeffries, 17; Paul McKenzie, 17; David Preston, 16, and Lawrence McKee, 19, all of Frostburg.

Juvenile Included

Jeffries and McKenzie were arrested Saturday by Officers George Tippen and Donald Griffith, of the Frostburg Police Department. The other youths were picked up on Sunday.

County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya said the Mt. Savage lad was released in custody of his mother for his appearance in Juvenile Court this week. He said the boy had not been in trouble before.

Lilya praised the work of the Frostburg Police Department, headed by Chief Benjamin H. Thompson, for work on the series of burglaries.

Four of the youths have previous records, officials said.

When questioned, the five youths admitted taking part in one or more of the nine different breaking and enterings in Frostburg. The lads generally operated in pairs, but not as an organized gang.

Damage Is Heavy

The youths, Lilya said, admitted responsibility for nine different breaking and enterings in Frostburg in January, February and March.

The list of places broken into includes Kenny's Tavern, Dutch's Restaurant (entered twice), Sleeman Lumber Company, Lucky's Liquor Store (attempt), Koegel's Feed Store, Ruffo Tavern, Sluss Grocery and Al's Restaurant.

The loot gathered in the depreciations has not been heavy, officials said, but the damage to property has been considerable.

Cpl. William F. Baker, criminal investigator for the Maryland State Police, has been assisting in the investigation.

Reservists Ask For Active Duty

Three members of the local units of the U. S. Army Reserve have requested and were released for two years active duty in the army, according to Major Grant E. Hoover, unit advisor.

Reporting to Fort George G. Meade for assignments were Sfc. Walter F. Daulbaugh, 502 North Centre Street, and Sgt. Carl M. Rossi, 506 Bedford Street, both of Headquarters, Headquarters Detachment, 398th Ordnance Battalion, and Pvt. Louie A. Margherita, 38 Bridge Street, Ridgeley, of Headquarters, 810th Signal Battalion (Service).

Major Hoover said three men have enlisted in the Army Reserve here and have been assigned to the 392d Military Police Company (Guard). They are:

Pvt. Paul O'Neil, Pvt. Chester R. Kenner and Pvt. James E. Miller, all of Westernport. Each enlisted for eight years.

Also announced was the promotion of John D. Wegman, Lonaconing, of Headquarters, 810th Signal Battalion (Service), who was advanced from private to corporal.

A letter of commendation has been received by Mrs. Harry Beneman, chairman of the Allegany County Red Cross, from Arthur Koster, administrator of the Johnstown Blood Bank laboratories and collection center.

Blue Ridge Bus Sale Terms Are Finally Reached

Transfer Basis Met By Greyhound Corp.

R. Paul Smith, president of Blue Ridge Bus Lines, said yesterday that following a long period of negotiations a basis has finally been agreed upon whereby the properties of the Blue Ridge Transportation Company and White Star Lines would be transferred to the Greyhound Corporation and become a part of what is now the Pennsylvania Greyhound operation.

Smith pointed out that a transfer of properties and personnel of the size and magnitude involved in the negotiations presented many perplexing and difficult problems.

Protect Records

"Negotiations," he said, "which would protect the long service records of the group of loyal employes as well as an assurance of the continuation of the high standard of service to a loyal, well deserving public, were among the major factors in consideration of the transfer.

"We certainly felt that we could make this transfer only to the strongest of possible companies. It is our feeling that this obligation has been well met with the nationally known Greyhound Corporation. The proposed transfer has been brought about largely by the fact that modern bus operation today has become more specialized than ever before and seems to lend itself to increasingly larger units of operation."

The actual completion of the transfer is still some distance in the future, Smith noted. Many steps must be taken, details worked out and regulatory approvals secured from the various state and federal bodies having jurisdiction before any change can be made, he continued. In the meantime, officials said, all operations will remain as at present.

Covers Same Territory

"It is hoped," Smith stated, "that when the transfer time does come it will be done so smoothly as to cause a minimum of inconvenience to all parties concerned."

The Blue Ridge Lines connect Pittsburgh, Baltimore and Washington and serve intermediate points in Maryland, Pennsylvania and West Virginia. Greyhound covers the same territory but concentrates on handling through passengers between the larger cities, leaving most of the intermediate points to Blue Ridge.

Kelly Arbitration Hearings Planned

Hearings on two arbitration cases are scheduled Wednesday morning at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant, according to William G. Rice, president of Local 26, Rubber Workers Union (CIO).

The cases, which involve the discharge of one employe and the vacation pay of another, will be heard by G. Allen Dash, Philadelphia, umpire for the company and the union.

During recent negotiations, Rice said, the local negotiated extra seniority credits ranging from 11 to 18 months for World War II Veterans who worked at the Kelly Engineering Company before entering the Armed Forces and later resumed work for the tire company.

Aiding in the negotiations were H. M. Leet, attorney, and V. J. Meyl, field representative for the Veteran Re-employment Rights bureau.

The Weather

Residents of Cumberland and surrounding area had a preview of Spring yesterday although the air was a little breezy. Many persons took advantage of the sunshine and strolled about the city streets. The forecast for today is fair and mild. The high temperature recorded at Constitution Park yesterday was 51 degrees with a low of 29 degrees, and at 7:30 p. m. yesterday the mercury registered 41 degrees. Humidity at 6 p. m. was 47.5 per cent.

McLaughlin Says Judges Did Not Seek Amendment

Senator Made Mistake In Debating Measure

HAGERSTOWN, March 8 (AP) — Senator McLaughlin (R-Washington) said today "it was unfortunate" that in debating a bill to guarantee Allegany County two judges "I referred to the fact that this would be a measure in which only judges would be interested."

"What I should have said was only lawyers who wanted to be judges would be interested," he added.

McLaughlin referred to a debate in the Senate the last day of the recent Legislature in which he clashed with Minority Leader Kimble (R-Allegany).

Kimble Sought Amendment

A bill was passed at the session to put a proposed constitutional amendment on the ballot calling for at least one circuit judge to sit in most Maryland counties. Kimble tried unsuccessfully to have it amended to guarantee Allegany County would keep at least two resident judges, which it now has. Garrett County is also in the circuit but does not now have a resident judge.

McLaughlin argued that Chief Judge Joseph D. Mish in Hagerstown "is doing 45 per cent of the work" in the circuit, in which Associate Judges George Henderson and Morgan C. Harris of Cumberland also sit.

Today McLaughlin said he had not meant to refer to Judges Henderson or Harris, and that neither stood to gain anything from the proposed amendment.

After referring to the Allegany County delegation's attempt to tack a rider on the constitutional amendment, McLaughlin's statement said:

Opposed By McLaughlin

"This measure was opposed by me because I felt that the circuit did not need four judges and that one judge in Garrett, one in Allegany and one in Washington County would be sufficient. . . .

"I wish to emphasize that neither Judge Henderson nor Judge Harris of Allegany County did anything to advance the passage of this measure because it could in no way affect their present terms of office.

"Judge Harris has 11 years remaining in his term and Judge Henderson will retire in four years because of the constitutional age limitation. If the amendment providing for a judge in each county is passed, both judges will continue their terms. After Judge Henderson retires, Allegany County will have but one judge.

Judges Not In Favor

"We were advised in the Legislature that the Bar Association of Allegany County was in favor of the amendment providing for four judges in the circuit, but I personally know that both Judges Henderson and Harris were opposed to this measure. They both felt the same as I; namely, that this circuit does not require more than three judges.

"It was unfortunate that in debate of this matter I referred to the fact that this would be a measure in which only two judges would be interested. What I should have said was only lawyers who wanted to be judges would be interested.

"If it should ever develop that Allegany County would require two judges, subsequent legislation could be introduced providing for this relief."

Lancaster Heads 4-H Federation

Jerry Lancaster of LaVale 4-H Club was elected president of the Allegany County Boys 4-H Federation last night at a meeting held in the office of Assistant County Agent Joseph M. Steger.

Other new officers of the federation are James Reed of Winchester Road, vice president; Bernard Gross, LaVale, secretary; and Norman Smith, Little Orleans-Piney Plains Club, treasurer.

Lancaster succeeds Joseph Brown of Oldtown as head of the county-wide organization.

In addition to the election of officers the federation members made tentative plans for its yearly activities at last night's meeting.

The annual recreation night activities will be held April 3 at Fort Hill High school; a county-wide campfire is set for August 12 and a fall banquet and social is also on the agenda.

Plans for several of the members to enter the radio 4-H public speaking contest April 13 were also made. The theme of the contest is "Working Together For World Understanding."

Twenty-eight members of the federation which embraces 18 community 4-H clubs and three county-wide clubs were present at last night's affair. Steger was in charge of the proceedings.

The next meeting of the group will be held in the county agent's office May 10.

Elected Secretary

Jane Hansroth, daughter of Mrs. Virginia Hansroth of 51 Browning Street, has been elected secretary of Zeta Tau Alpha, national social sorority at Bethany College, Bethany, W. Va. Miss Hansroth is a junior majoring in elementary education. She graduated from Fort Hill High School in 1951.

Killed in the two-car accident was 22-year-old Maynard Lee Davis, of Patterson's Creek, who met death almost instantly when his car skidded broadside into an auto driven by Rev. Robert D. The two-car crash occurred about 9 p. m. Sunday about a half mile north of Short Gap along West Virginia State Route 28. Rev. Goshorn is reported in "good" condition at the same hospital. He suffered cuts and bruises about the body. Davis was driving alone at the time of the mishap.

Most seriously hurt was Harold D. Sencindiver, 36, of 126 South Mechanic Street, driver of one of the cars. Last night his condition at Memorial Hospital was reported as "about the same." He was admitted to the hospital in an unconscious condition, suffering from head and facial injuries.

However, he regained consciousness Sunday morning and was listed as "good" yesterday. Two passengers riding with him were admitted to the hospital and both were reported in "good" condition last night by attaches.

Celanese Sets New Record In Chemical Sales

Firm Shows Upward Trend In 1953 Report

Celanese Corporation of America net profits in 1953 amounted to $10,652,977 after charges and taxes, equal to $1.01 a share of common stock, compared with $9,214,367, or the equivalent of 77 cents a common share, in 1952, according to the annual report of the Company. Net sales in 1953 of $165,980,967 were below the previous year's total of $166,711,033.

Sales of the Chemical Division of the company in 1953 were more than 15 per cent above the preceding year, with new high records established in dollar volume and poundage. Sales of the Plastics Division last year were reported as approximately 20 per cent above the previous year.

Total current assets of Celanese Corporation of America and domestic subsidiary companies as of December 31, 1953, aggregated $84,969,853, including $27,613,012 of cash and United States Government securities, compared with current liabilities of $13,989,405. This left net working capital of $70,980,448 at the end of the year.

Foreign Investments

The report showed that the equity of Celanese Corporation of America, in its foreign affiliates, amounted to $49,338,930, or approximately $16,000,000 more than the investments in such affiliates.

Some of the unsatisfactory conditions which have plagued the textile industry in the past three years were attributed in the report to changes in the industry's established organizational structure, abnormal outside forces and overemphasis on the promotional rather than the performance characteristics of various fibers.

"These factors," the report continued, "caused serious dislocations in all segments of the industry, with particularly adverse effects evidenced at the initial level of distribution which is represented by the yarn producer.

"During the war years the textile industry's traditional concept of inter-related, but autonomous, production and processing operations was gradually shifted toward an integrated structure. Individual textile firms, which formerly restricted their operations to weaving, or to converting, or to producing finished articles from purchased fabrics, consolidated all of these functions within one organization.

"A factor in this trend toward integration was the tax benefits it made possible. One immediate effect of this changed concept was the emphasis placed on mass production at the expense of styling, thus relegating styling to a secondary position in an industry that is basically dependent upon it.

Prices Stabilized

"Price stability appears to have been achieved in acetate yarn and fabrics in the last quarter of 1953. This very important factor may have considerable bearing upon current results. It corrected a chaotic condition which existed during most of the year, characterized by profitless volume of sales, and was undoubtedly a retarding influence on the use of acetate and other cellulosic fibers.

"Since a healthy textile industry needs price stability at the yarn level — the base point of textile economics—we intend to maintain production at a level sufficient to satisfy actual demand. By adjusting production to meet real requirements rather than to operate at existing capacity, an industry may be able to avoid periods of over-production with their consequent price instability and general dislocations."

Four Frostburg youths will face Grand Jury action in April in connection with a series of nine breaking and enterings in that community recently, and a 13-year-old Mt. Savage lad who took part in the minor crime wave will receive a hearing in Juvenile Court here this week.

Officials said a preliminary hearing probably will be held today for the purpose of setting bond for the four youths who are to be bound over for action of the Grand Jury.

The youths being held in the Allegany County Jail, were identified as Eugene Jeffries, 17; Paul McKenzie, 17; David Preston, 16, and Lawrence McKee, 19, all of Frostburg.

Juvenile Included

Jeffries and McKenzie were arrested Saturday by Officers George Tippen and Donald Griffith, of the Frostburg Police Department. The other youths were picked up on Sunday.

County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya said the Mt. Savage lad was released in custody of his mother for his appearance in Juvenile Court this week. He said the boy had not been in trouble before.

Lilya praised the work of the Frostburg Police Department, headed by Chief Benjamin H. Thompson, for work on the series of burglaries.

Four of the youths have previous records, officials said.

When questioned, the five youths admitted taking part in one or more of the nine different breaking and enterings in Frostburg. The lads generally operated in pairs, but not as an organized gang.

Damage Is Heavy

The youths, Lilya said, admitted responsibility for nine different breaking and enterings in Frostburg in January, February and March.

The list of places broken into includes Kenny's Tavern, Dutch's Restaurant (entered twice), Sleeman Lumber Company, Lucky's Liquor Store (attempt), Koegel's Feed Store, Ruffo Tavern, Sluss Grocery and Al's Restaurant.

The loot gathered in the depreciations has not been heavy, officials said, but the damage to property has been considerable.

Blue Ridge Bus Sale Terms Are Finally Reached

Transfer Basis Met By Greyhound Corp.

R. Paul Smith, president of Blue Ridge Bus Lines, said yesterday that following a long period of negotiations a basis has finally been agreed upon whereby the properties of the Blue Ridge Transportation Company and White Star Lines would be transferred to the Greyhound Corporation and become a part of what is now the Pennsylvania Greyhound operation.

Smith pointed out that a transfer of properties and personnel of the size and magnitude involved in the negotiations presented many perplexing and difficult problems.

Protect Records

"Negotiations," he said, "which would protect the long service records of the group of loyal employes as well as an assurance of the continuation of the high standard of service to a loyal, well deserving public, were among the major factors in consideration of the transfer.

"We certainly felt that we could make this transfer only to the strongest of possible companies. It is our feeling that this obligation has been well met with the nationally known Greyhound Corporation. The proposed transfer has been brought about largely by the fact that modern bus operation today has become more specialized than ever before and seems to lend itself to increasingly larger units of operation."

The actual completion of the transfer is still some distance in the future, Smith noted. Many steps must be taken, details worked out and regulatory approvals secured from the various state and federal bodies having jurisdiction before any change can be made, he continued. In the meantime, officials said, all operations will remain as at present.

Covers Same Territory

"It is hoped," Smith stated, "that when the transfer time does come it will be done so smoothly as to cause a minimum of inconvenience to all parties concerned."

The Blue Ridge Lines connect Pittsburgh, Baltimore and Washington and serve intermediate points in Maryland, Pennsylvania and West Virginia. Greyhound covers the same territory but concentrates on handling through passengers between the larger cities, leaving most of the intermediate points to Blue Ridge.

During recent negotiations, Rice said, the local negotiated extra seniority credits ranging from 11 to 18 months for World War II Veterans who worked at the Kelly Engineering Company before entering the Armed Forces and later resumed work for the tire company.

Aiding in the negotiations were H. M. Leet, attorney, and V. J. Meyl, field representative for the Veteran Re-employment Rights bureau.

McLaughlin Says Judges Did Not Seek Amendment

Senator Made Mistake In Debating Measure

HAGERSTOWN, March 8 (AP) — Senator McLaughlin (R-Washington) said today "it was unfortunate" that in debating a bill to guarantee Allegany County two judges "I referred to the fact that this would be a measure in which only judges would be interested."

"What I should have said was only lawyers who wanted to be judges would be interested," he added.

McLaughlin referred to a debate in the Senate the last day of the recent Legislature in which he clashed with Minority Leader Kimble (R-Allegany).

Kimble Sought Amendment

A bill was passed at the session to put a proposed constitutional amendment on the ballot calling for at least one circuit judge to sit in most Maryland counties. Kimble tried unsuccessfully to have it amended to guarantee Allegany County would keep at least two resident judges, which it now has. Garrett County is also in the circuit but does not now have a resident judge.

McLaughlin argued that Chief Judge Joseph D. Mish in Hagerstown "is doing 45 per cent of the work" in the circuit, in which Associate Judges George Henderson and Morgan C. Harris of Cumberland also sit.

Today McLaughlin said he had not meant to refer to Judges Henderson or Harris, and that neither stood to gain anything from the proposed amendment.

After referring to the Allegany County delegation's attempt to tack a rider on the constitutional amendment, McLaughlin's statement said:

Opposed By McLaughlin

"This measure was opposed by me because I felt that the circuit did not need four judges and that one judge in Garrett, one in Allegany and one in Washington County would be sufficient. . . .

"I wish to emphasize that neither Judge Henderson nor Judge Harris of Allegany County did anything to advance the passage of this measure because it could in no way affect their present terms of office.

"Judge Harris has 11 years remaining in his term and Judge Henderson will retire in four years because of the constitutional age limitation. If the amendment providing for a judge in each county is passed, both judges will continue their terms. After Judge Henderson retires, Allegany County will have but one judge.

Judges Not In Favor

"We were advised in the Legislature that the Bar Association of Allegany County was in favor of the amendment providing for four judges in the circuit, but I personally know that both Judges Henderson and Harris were opposed to this measure. They both felt the same as I; namely, that this circuit does not require more than three judges.

"It was unfortunate that in debate of this matter I referred to the fact that this would be a measure in which only two judges would be interested. What I should have said was only lawyers who wanted to be judges would be interested.

"If it should ever develop that Allegany County would require two judges, subsequent legislation could be introduced providing for this relief."

Celanese Sets New Record In Chemical Sales

Firm Shows Upward Trend In 1953 Report

Celanese Corporation of America net profits in 1953 amounted to $10,652,977 after charges and taxes, equal to $1.01 a share of common stock, compared with $9,214,367, or the equivalent of 77 cents a common share, in 1952, according to the annual report of the Company. Net sales in 1953 of $165,980,967 were below the previous year's total of $166,711,033.

Sales of the Chemical Division of the company in 1953 were more than 15 per cent above the preceding year, with new high records established in dollar volume and poundage. Sales of the Plastics Division last year were reported as approximately 20 per cent above the previous year.

Total current assets of Celanese Corporation of America and domestic subsidiary companies as of December 31, 1953, aggregated $84,969,853, including $27,613,012 of cash and United States Government securities, compared with current liabilities of $13,989,405. This left net working capital of $70,980,448 at the end of the year.

Foreign Investments

The report showed that the equity of Celanese Corporation of America, in its foreign affiliates, amounted to $49,338,930, or approximately $16,000,000 more than the investments in such affiliates.

Some of the unsatisfactory conditions which have plagued the textile industry in the past three years were attributed in the report to changes in the industry's established organizational structure, abnormal outside forces and overemphasis on the promotional rather than the performance characteristics of various fibers.

"These factors," the report continued, "caused serious dislocations in all segments of the industry, with particularly adverse effects evidenced at the initial level of distribution which is represented by the yarn producer.

"During the war years the textile industry's traditional concept of inter-related, but autonomous, production and processing operations was gradually shifted toward an integrated structure. Individual textile firms, which formerly restricted their operations to weaving, or to converting, or to producing finished articles from purchased fabrics, consolidated all of these functions within one organization.

"A factor in this trend toward integration was the tax benefits it made possible. One immediate effect of this changed concept was the emphasis placed on mass production at the expense of styling, thus relegating styling to a secondary position in an industry that is basically dependent upon it.

Prices Stabilized

"Price stability appears to have been achieved in acetate yarn and fabrics in the last quarter of 1953. This very important factor may have considerable bearing upon current results. It corrected a chaotic condition which existed during most of the year, characterized by profitless volume of sales, and was undoubtedly a retarding influence on the use of acetate and other cellulosic fibers.

"Since a healthy textile industry needs price stability at the yarn level — the base point of textile economics—we intend to maintain production at a level sufficient to satisfy actual demand. By adjusting production to meet real requirements rather than to operate at existing capacity, an industry may be able to avoid periods of over-production with their consequent price instability and general dislocations."
